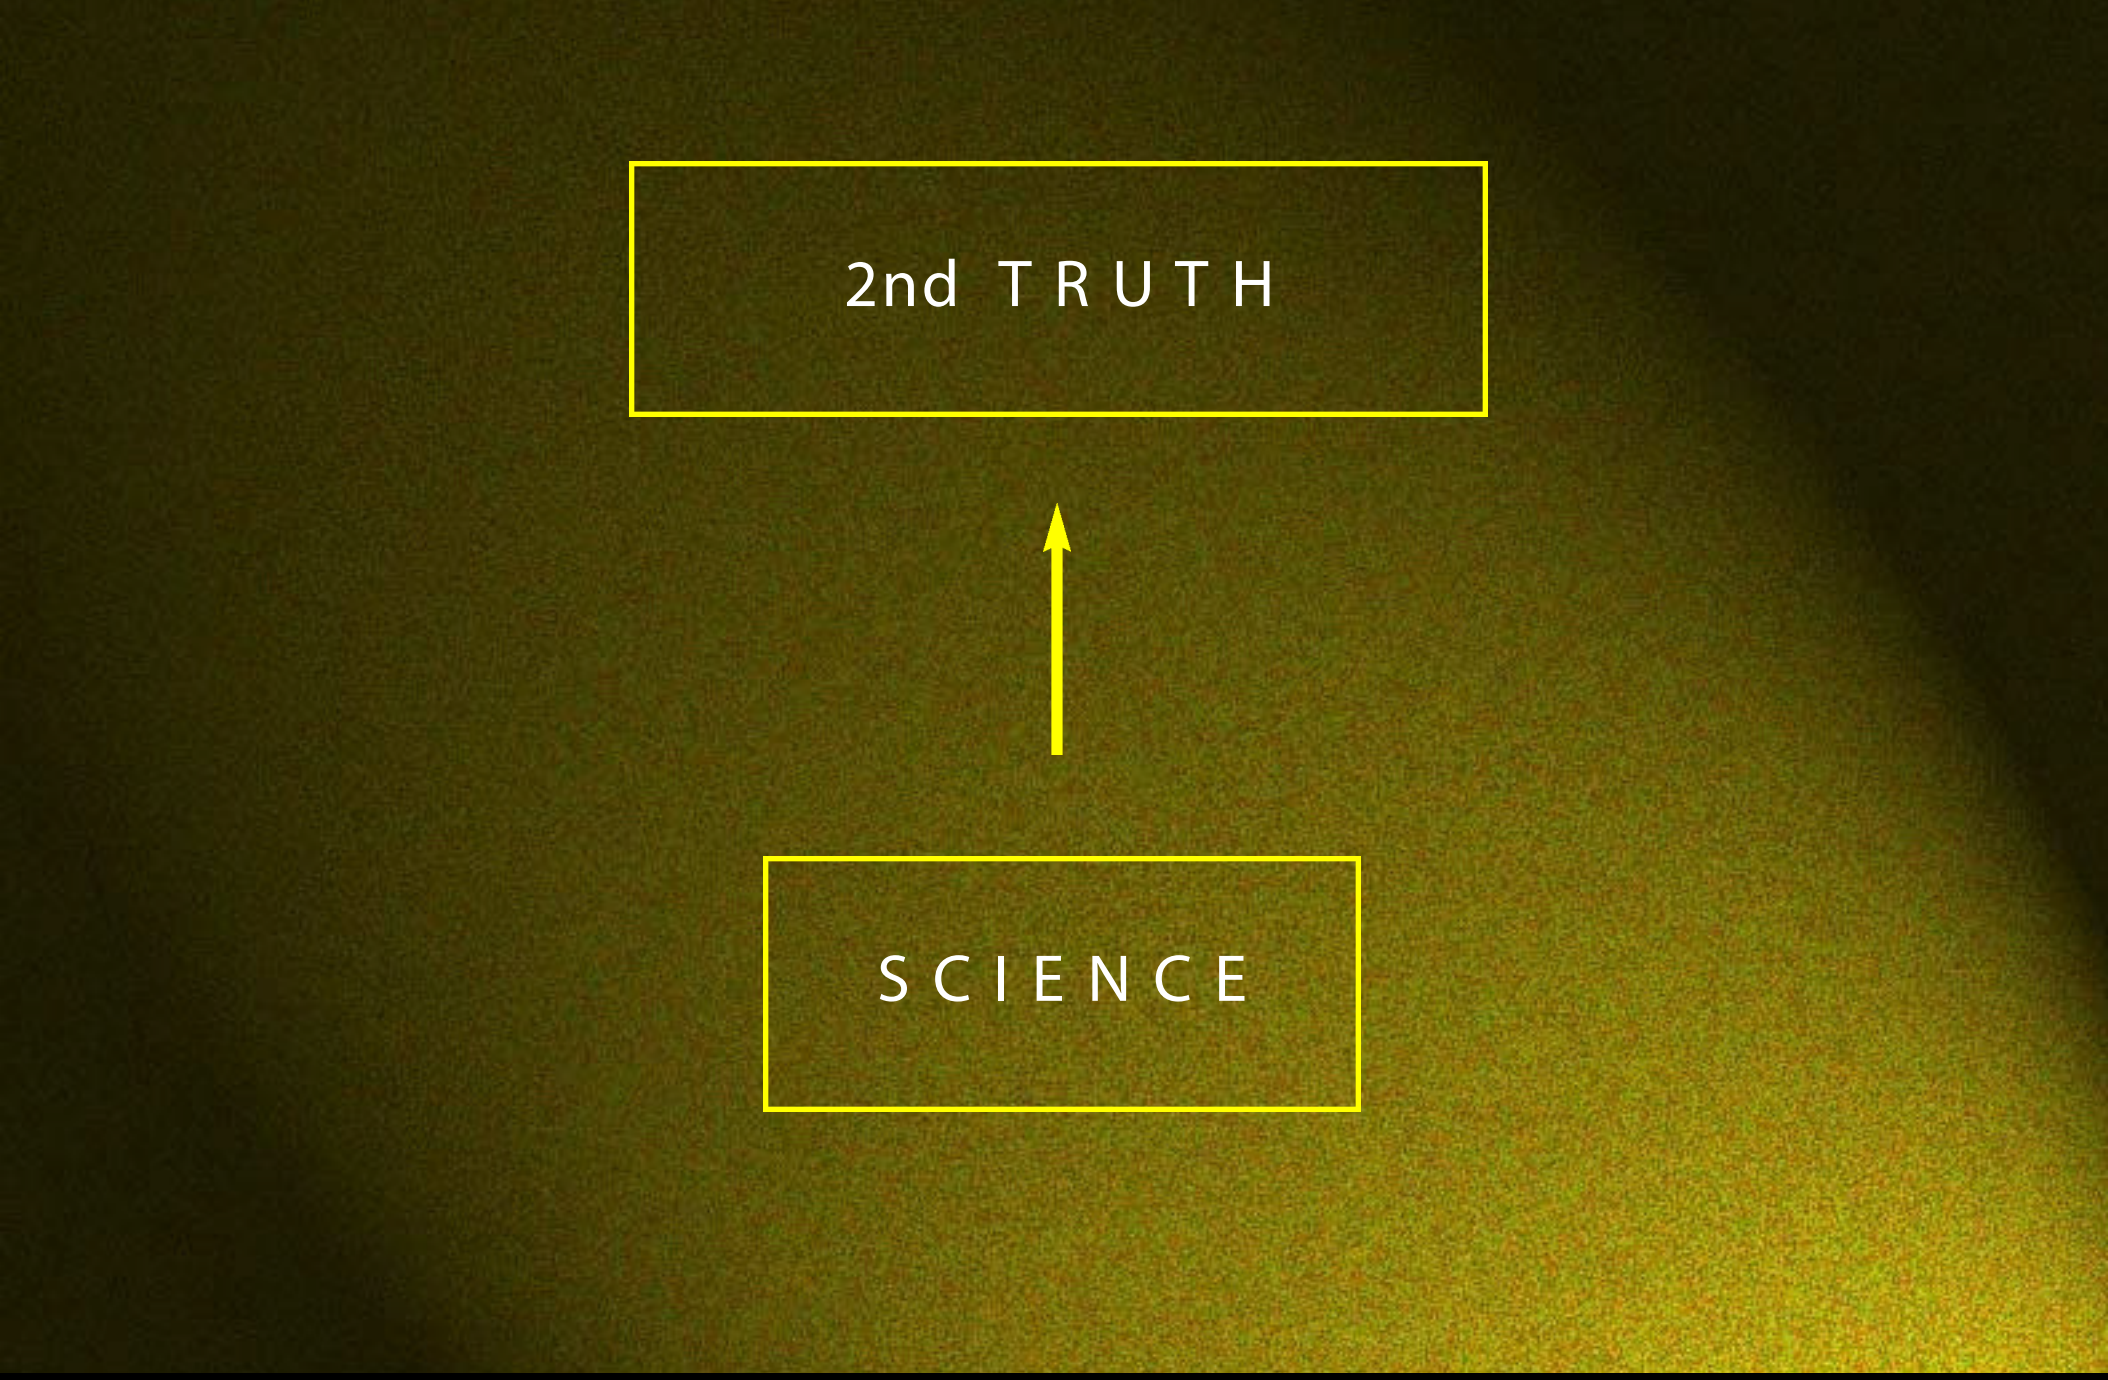
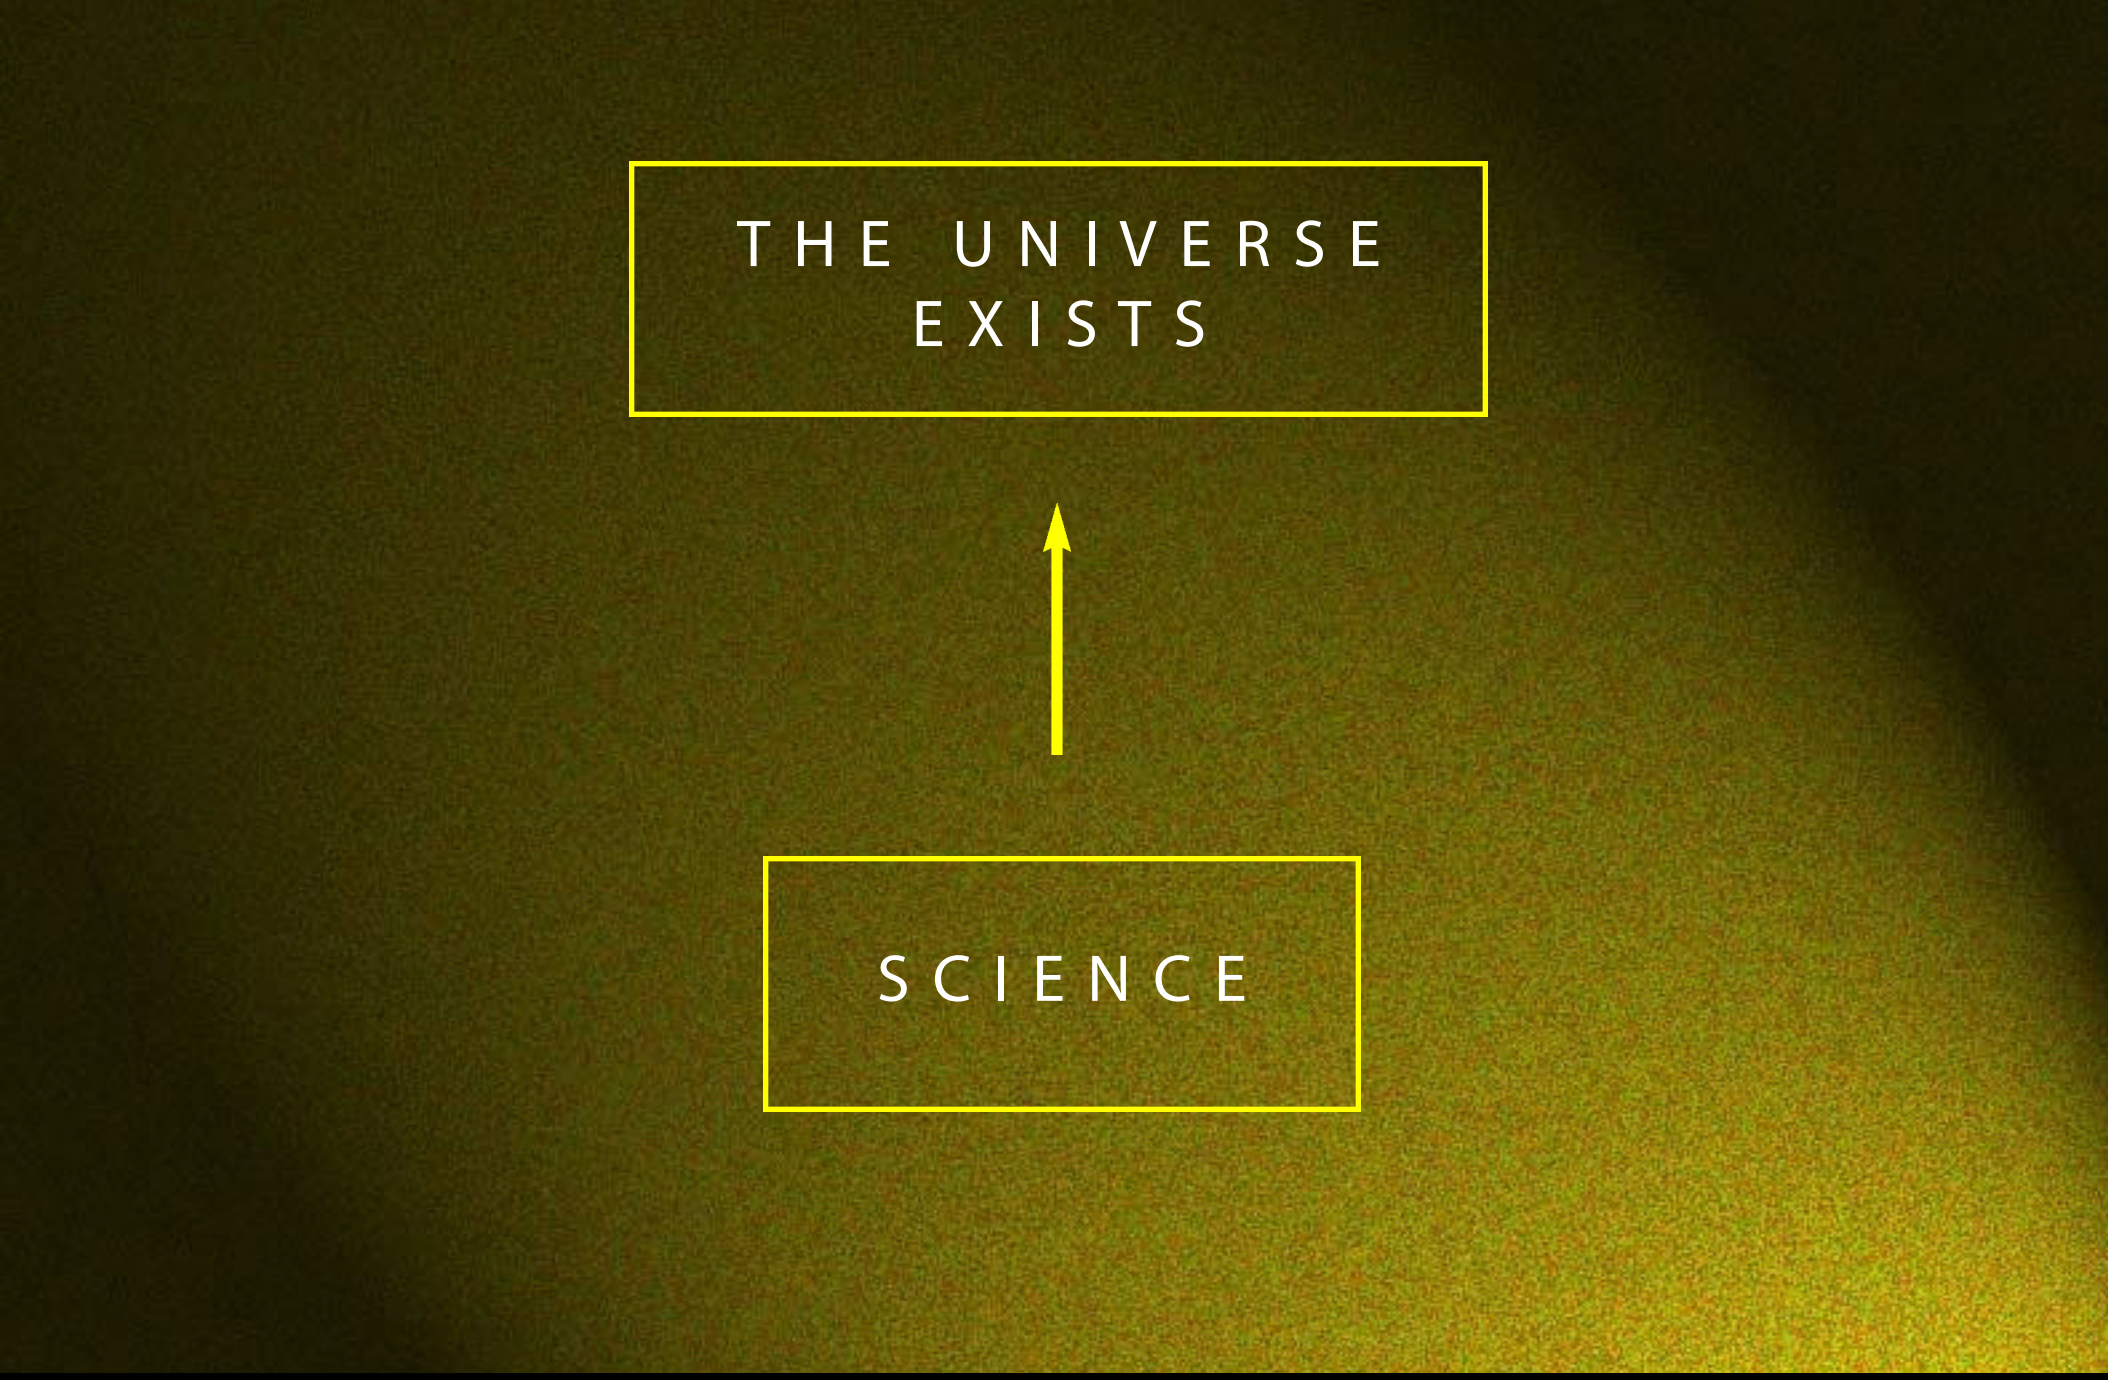
Truth Two: The Universe Exists



From science - what we observe - comes the second ‘truth’.



The existence of the Universe is a basic premise of science.

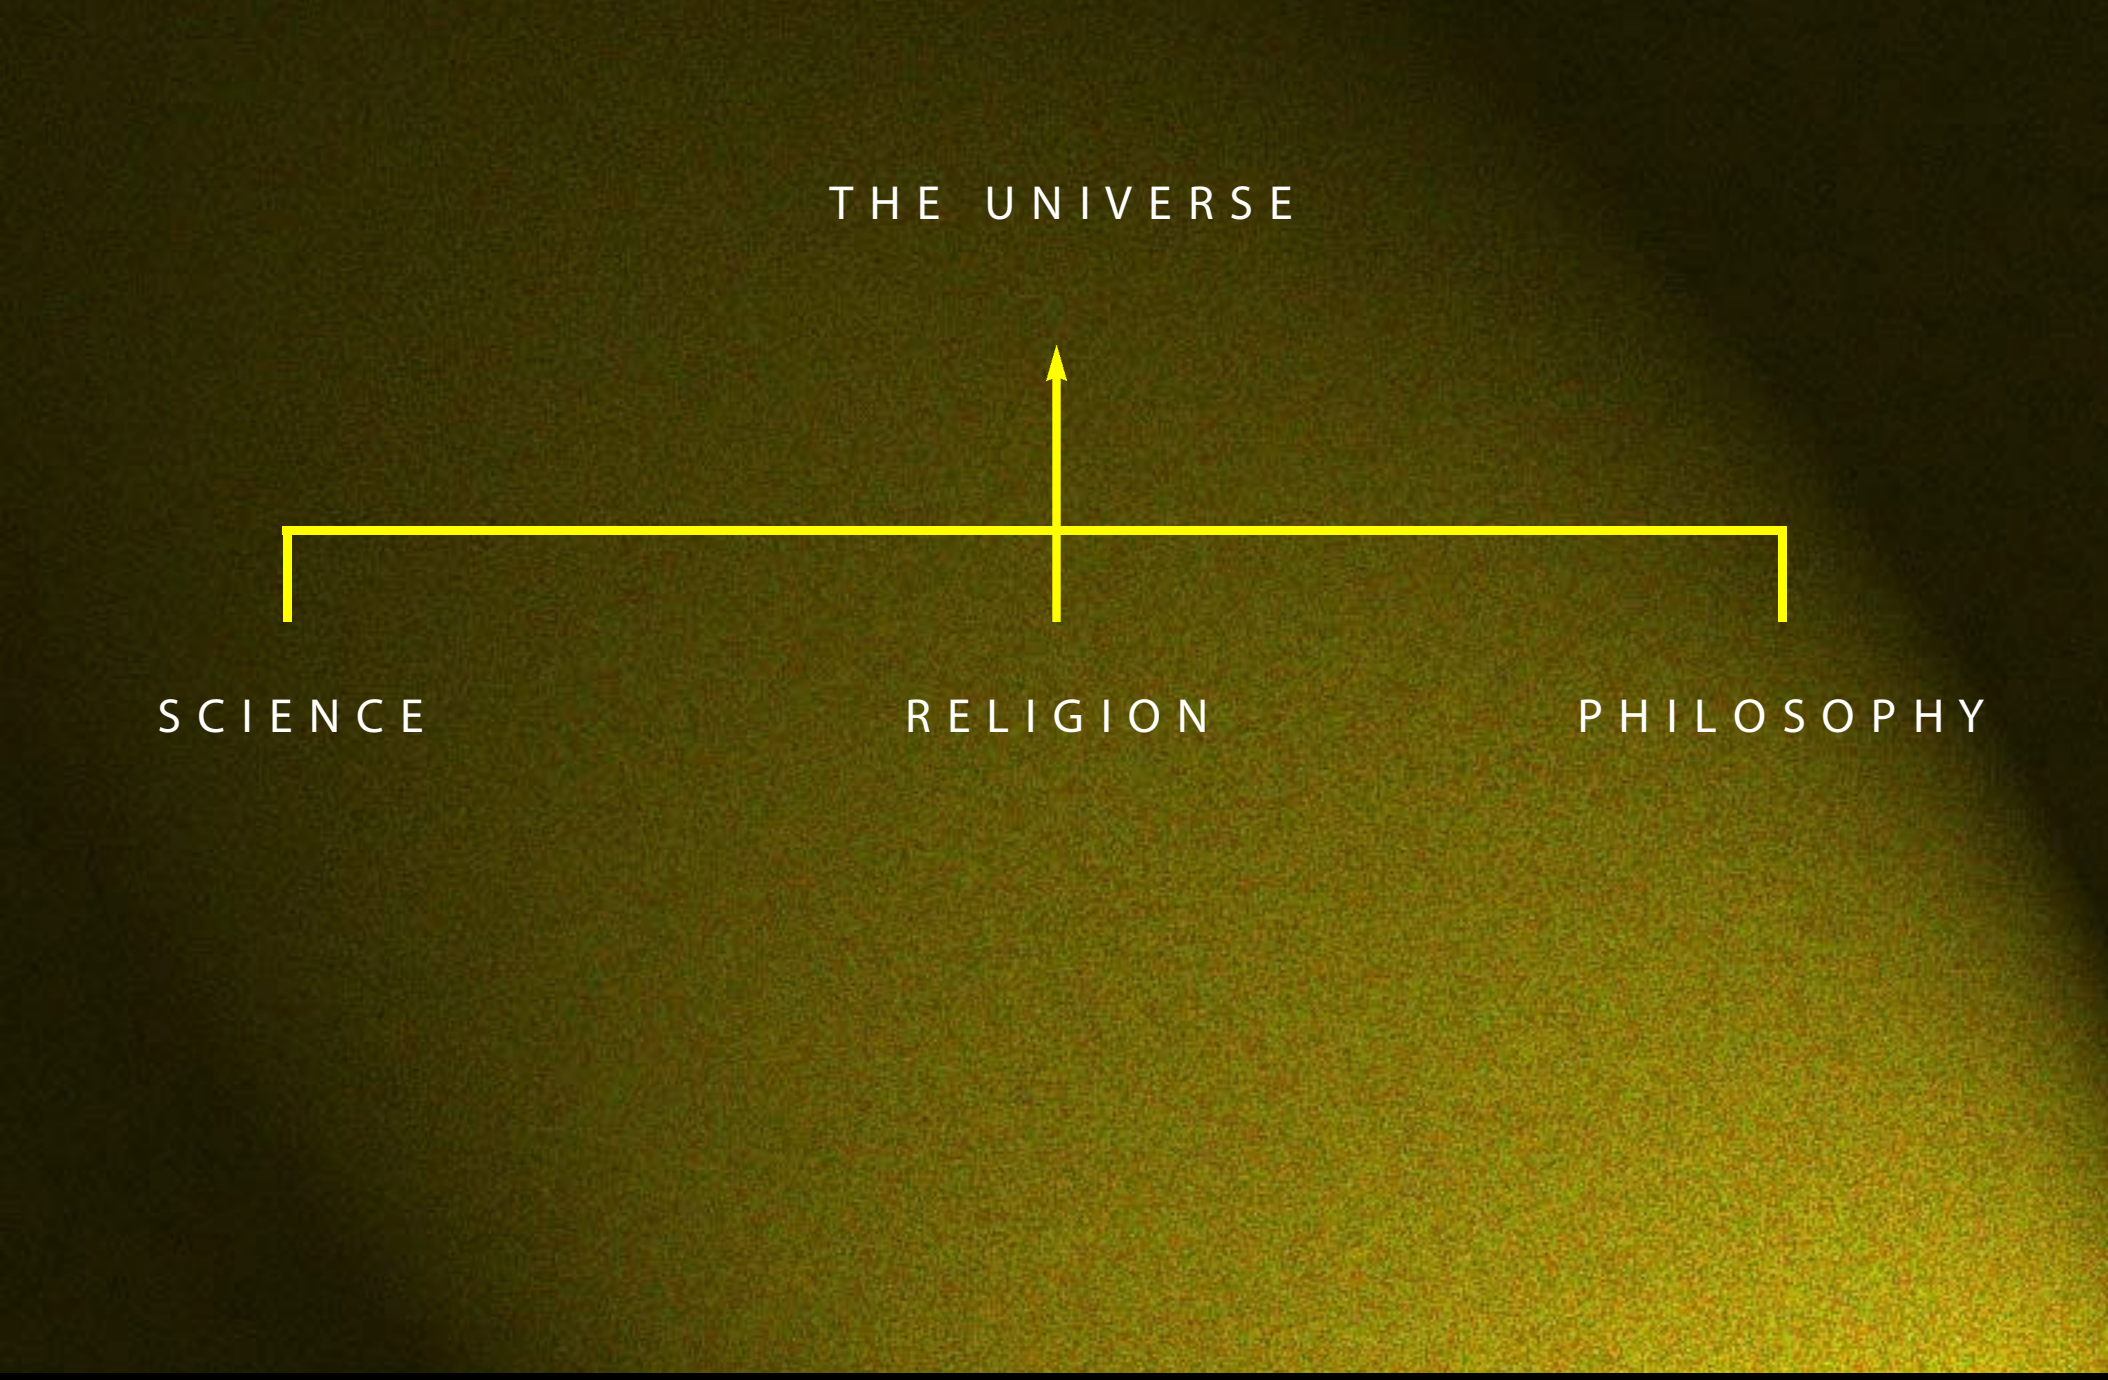
We can see the Universe.

We can measure the Universe.

We watch, study, speculate about the Universe.

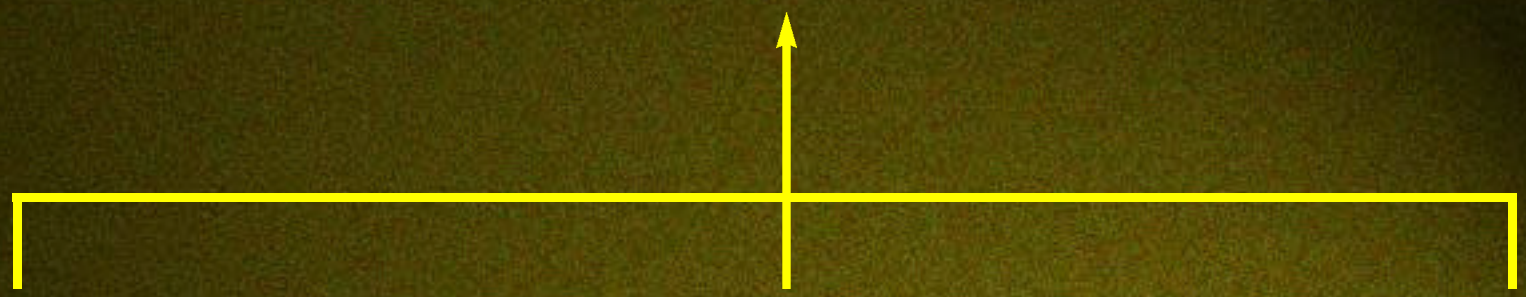
SCIENCE

The existence of the Universe appears to be one of the most fundamental ‘truths’ of science.



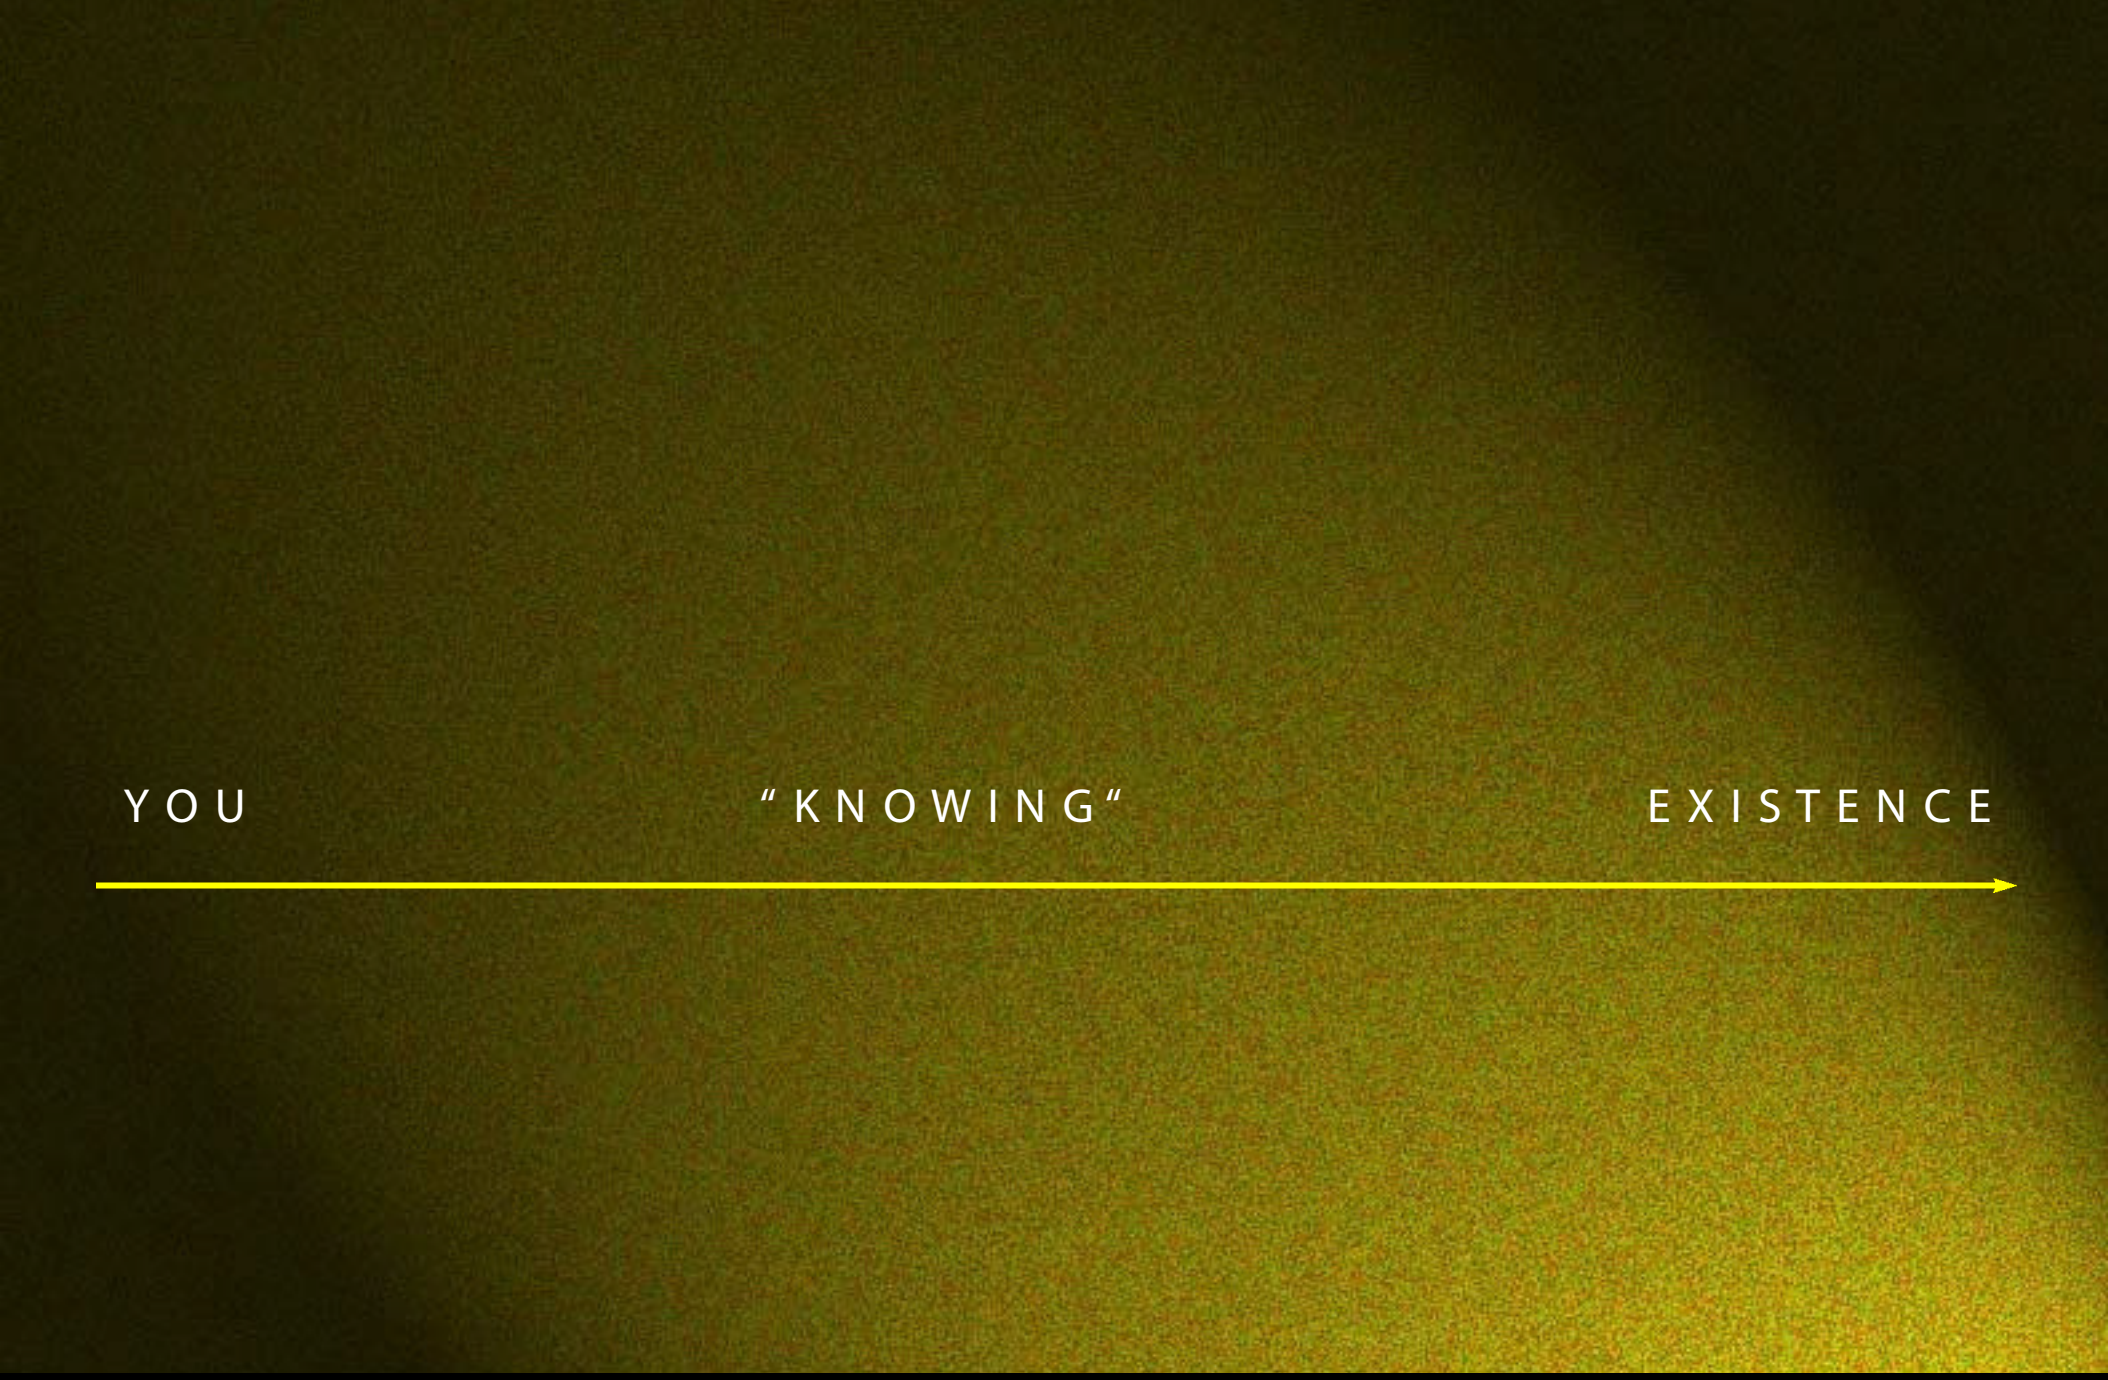
The Universe existing is further supported by both philosophy and religion.

THE UNIVERSE

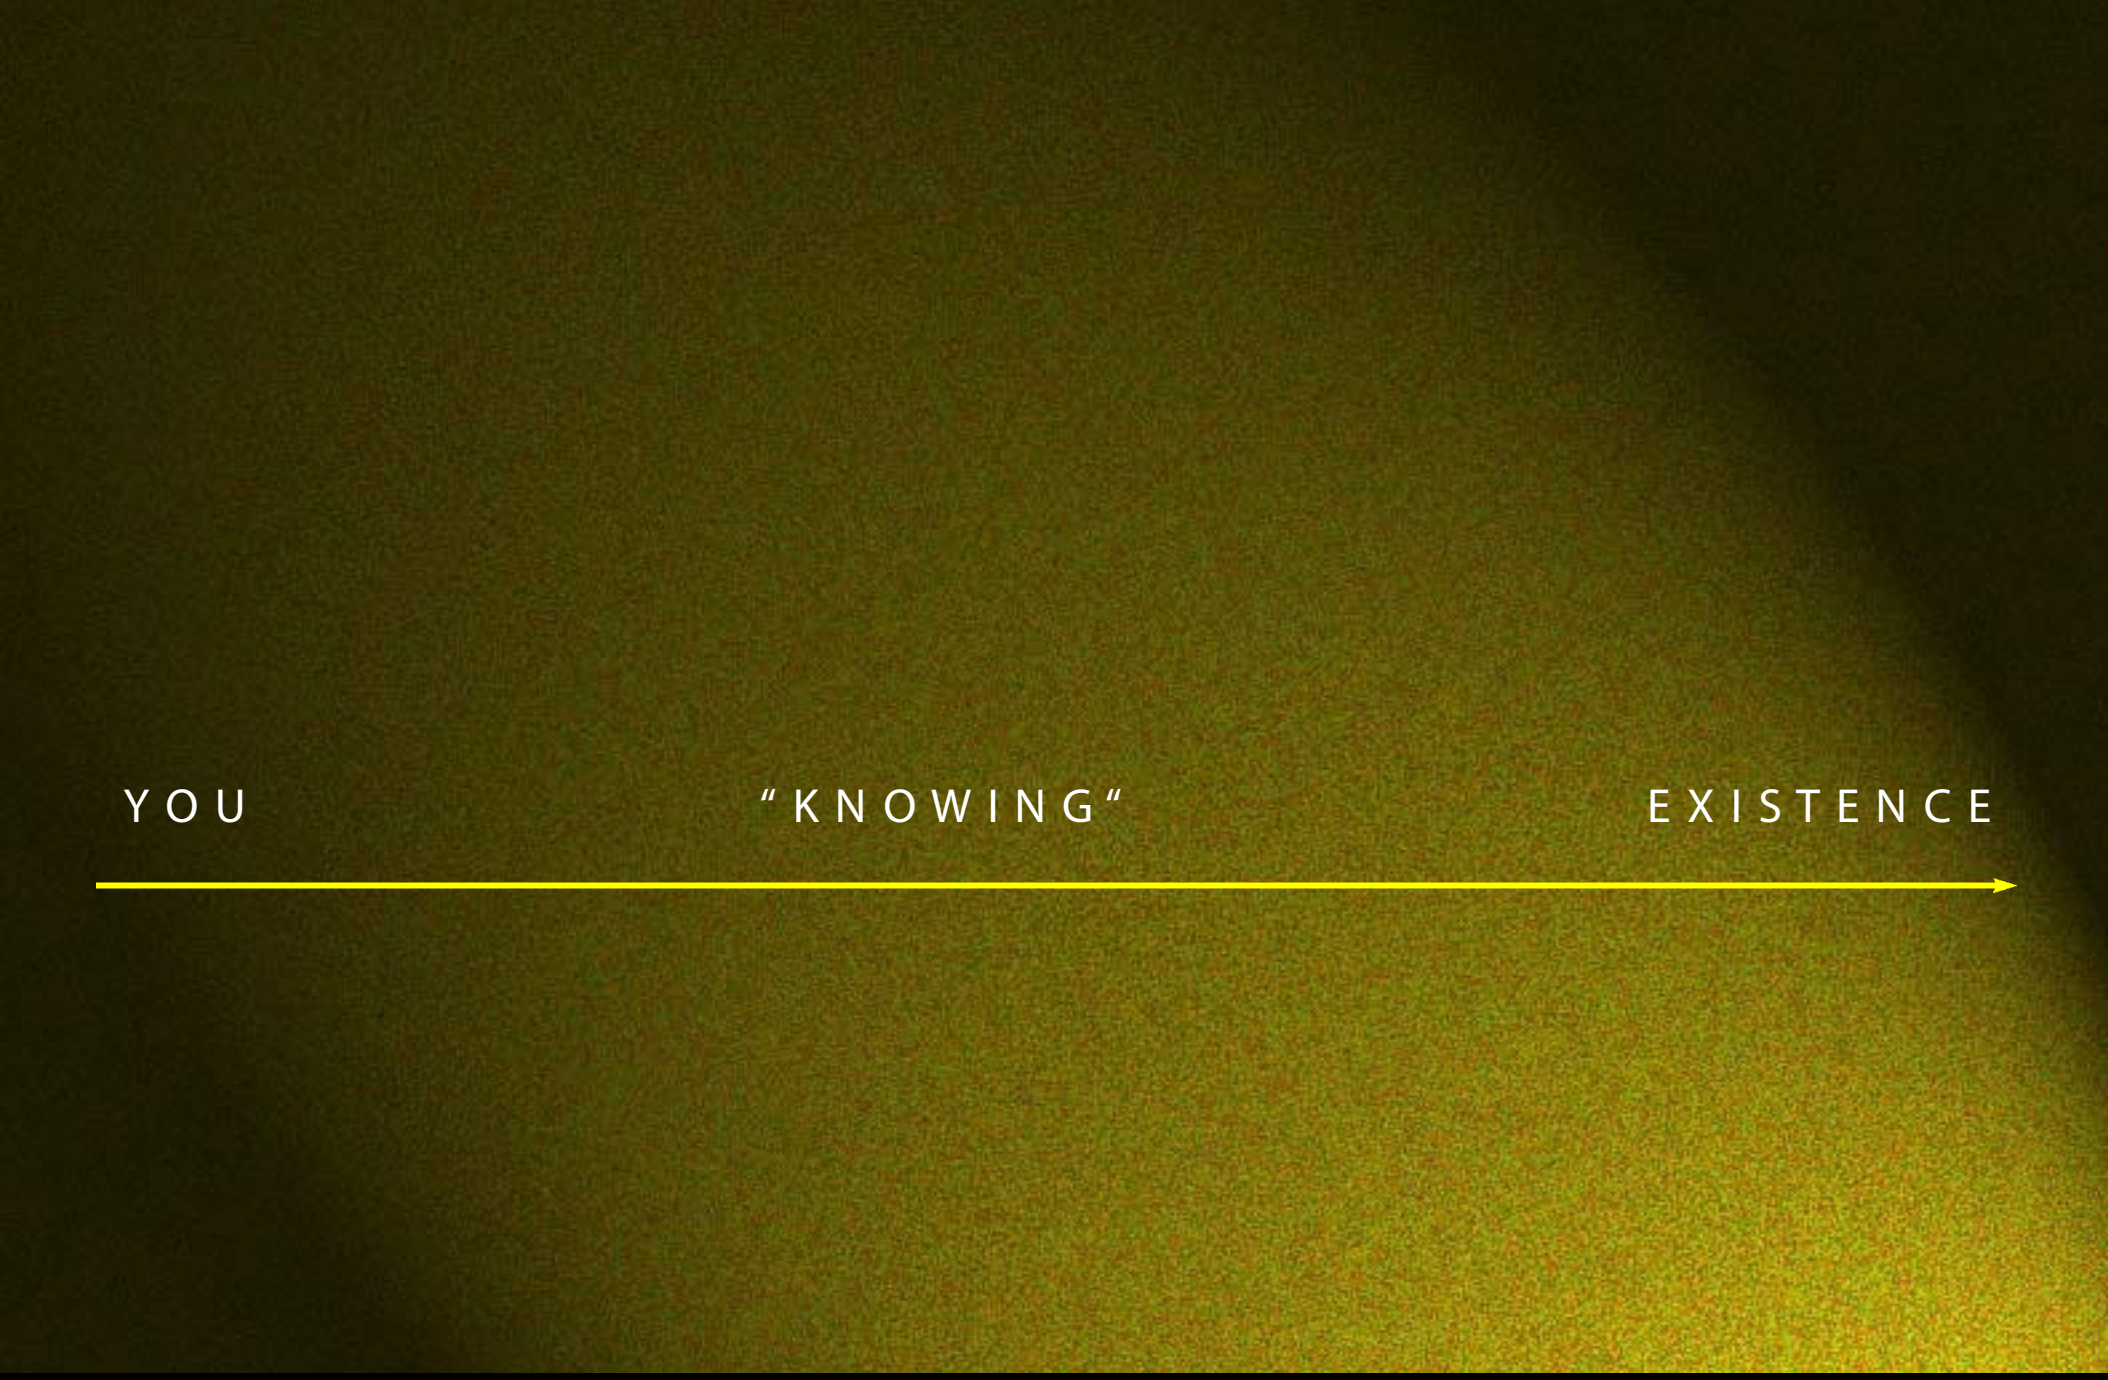


SCIENCE	RELIGION	PHILOSOPHY
•	•	•
Observation	Faith	Reason

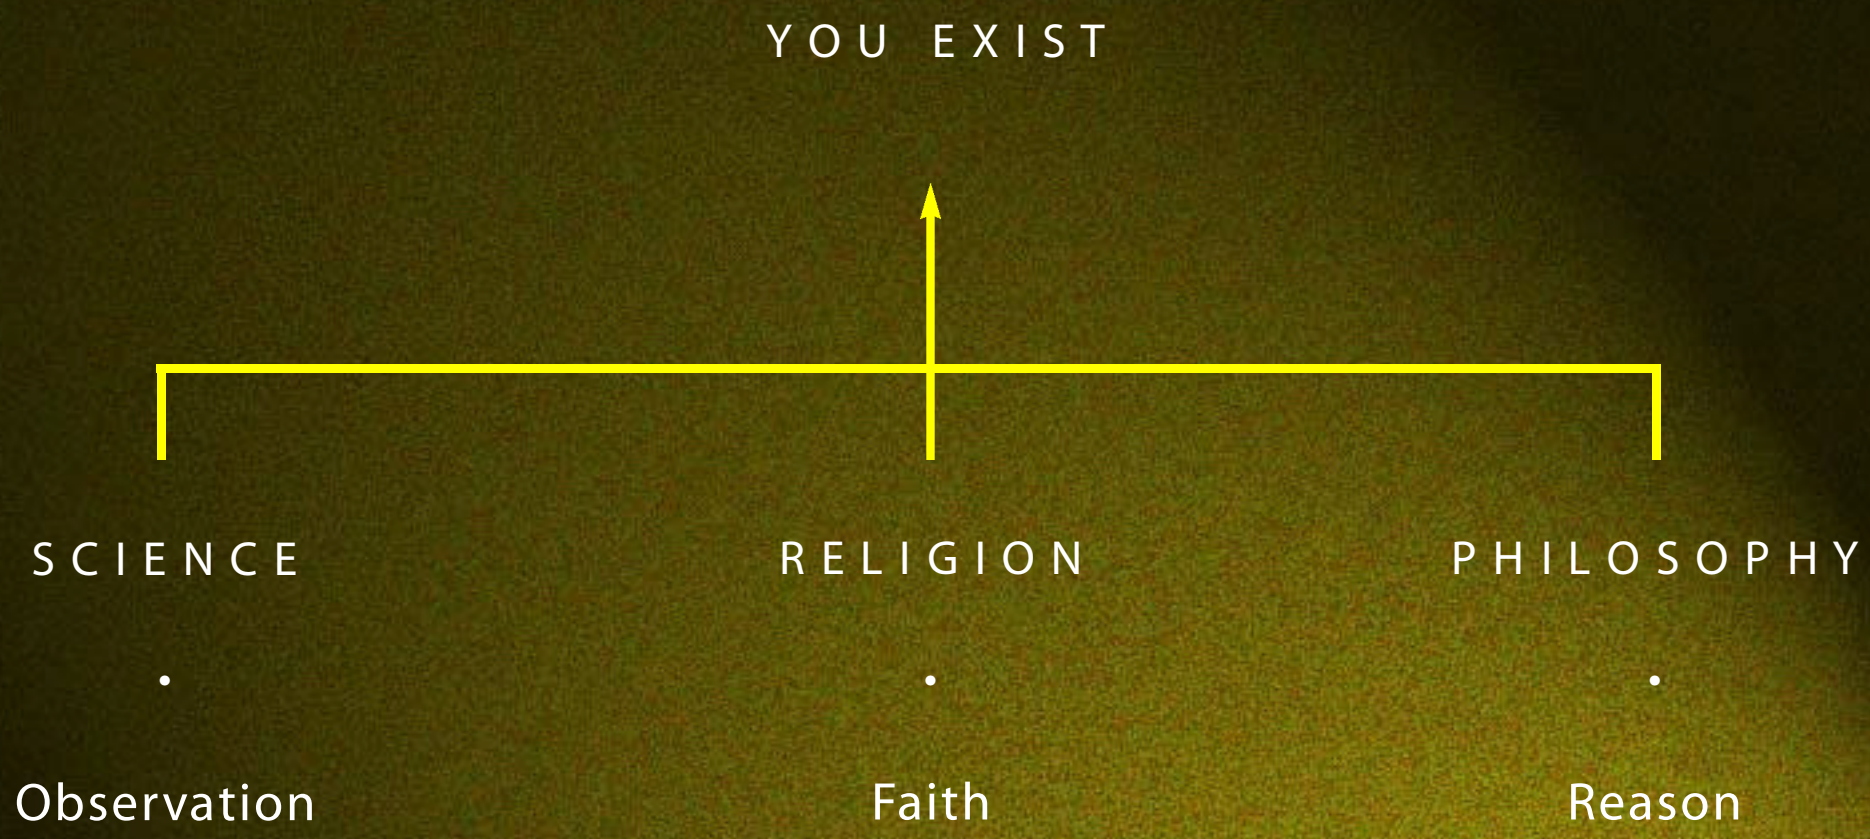
The concept, 'the Universe exists', is supported by philosophy - reason - rationality.



It seems almost as reasonable to conclude there is a place for your existence, your 'knowing' to travel



as it seems reasonable



YOU EXIST

RELIGION

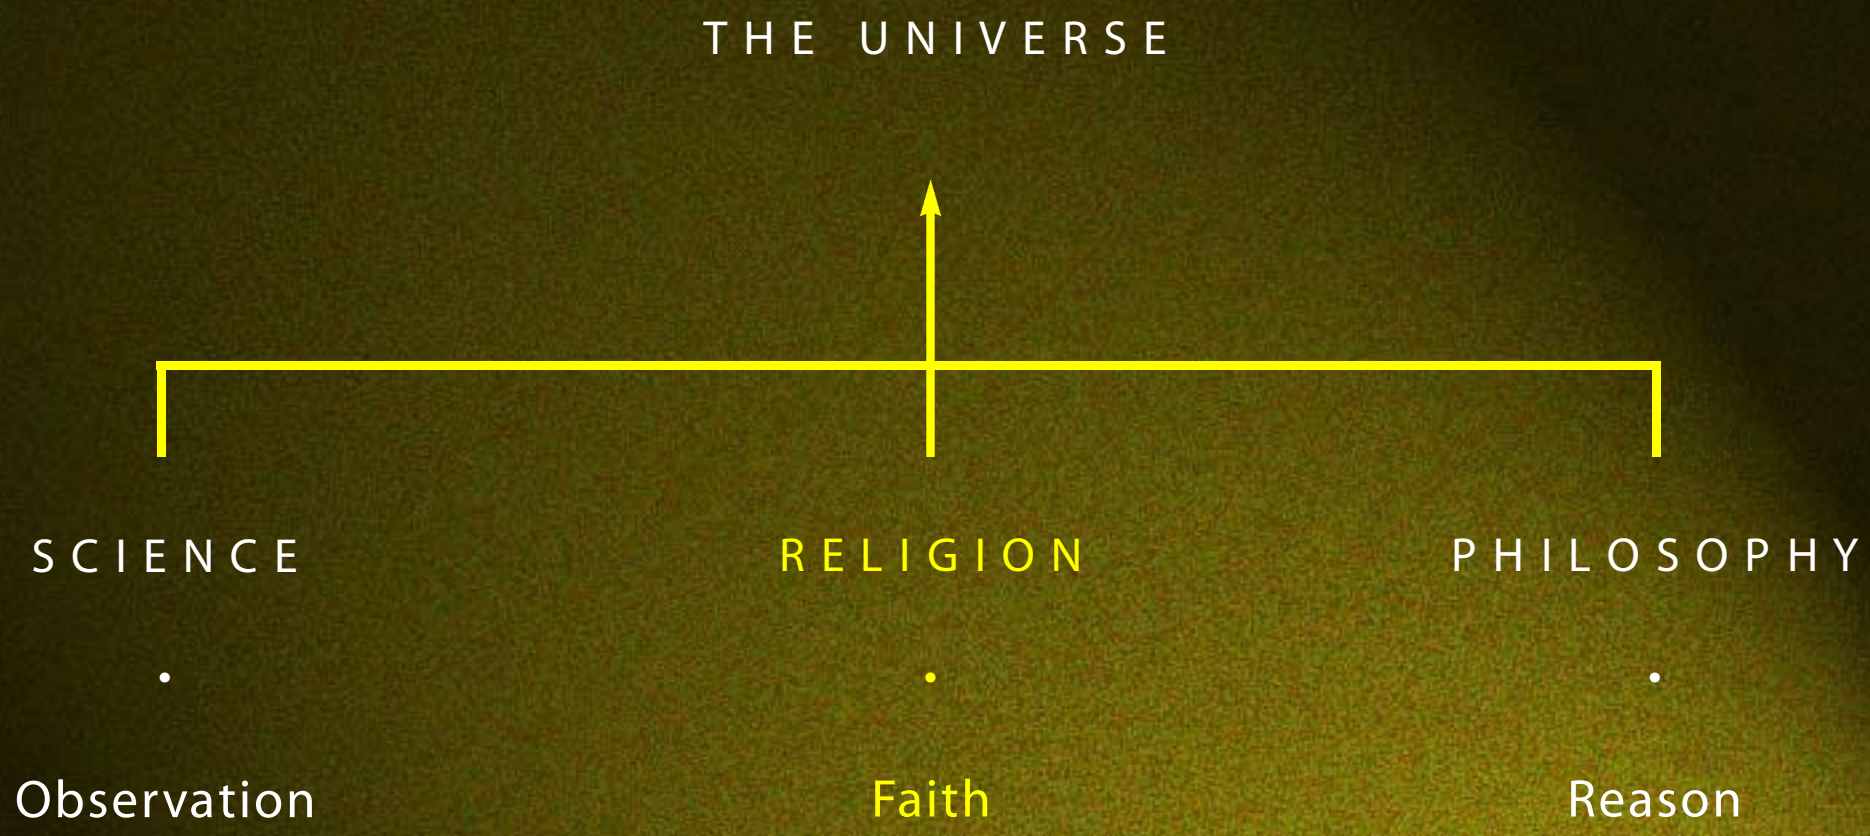
Reason

‘you exist’.



The existence of the Universe is further supported by religions which, for the most part:

CREATION

Faith

profess the concept of creation,

THE SOUL

Faith

profess the significance of the soul as it travels
through the Universe,

THE INDIVIDUAL

Faith

supports the existence of the individual as it travels within the Universe dwells upon the relationship the soul must, does, and should have with God as it travels through the Universe.

THE SOUL

GOD

THE SOUL

THE UNIVERSE EXISTS

GOD

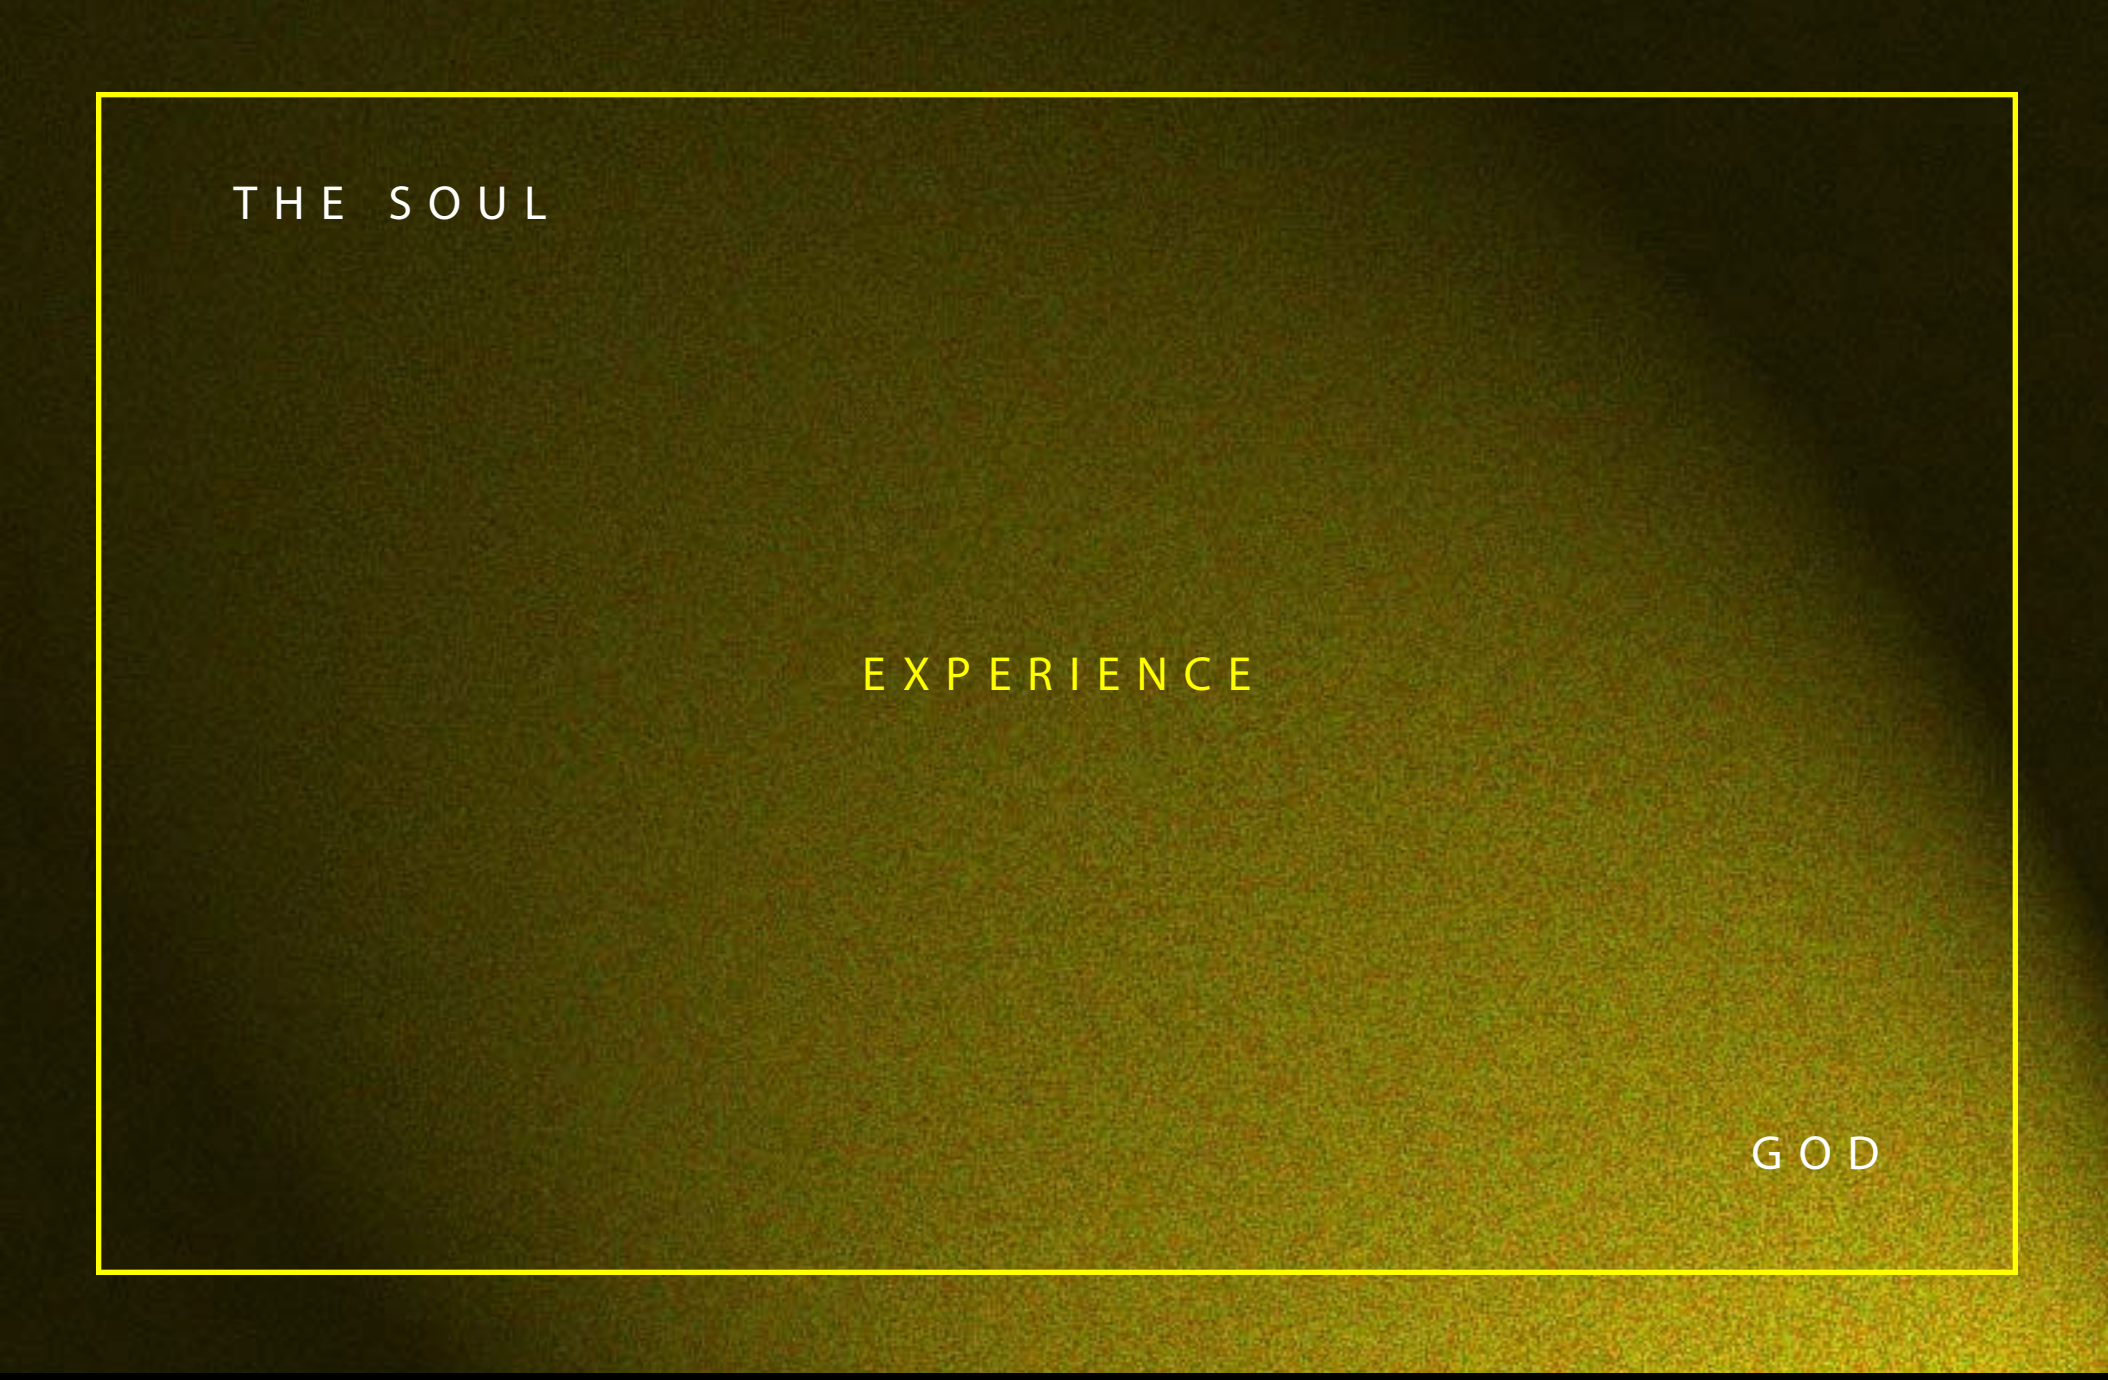
Who are we to deny the concept, the Universe exists?

THE SOUL

THE UNIVERSE EXISTS

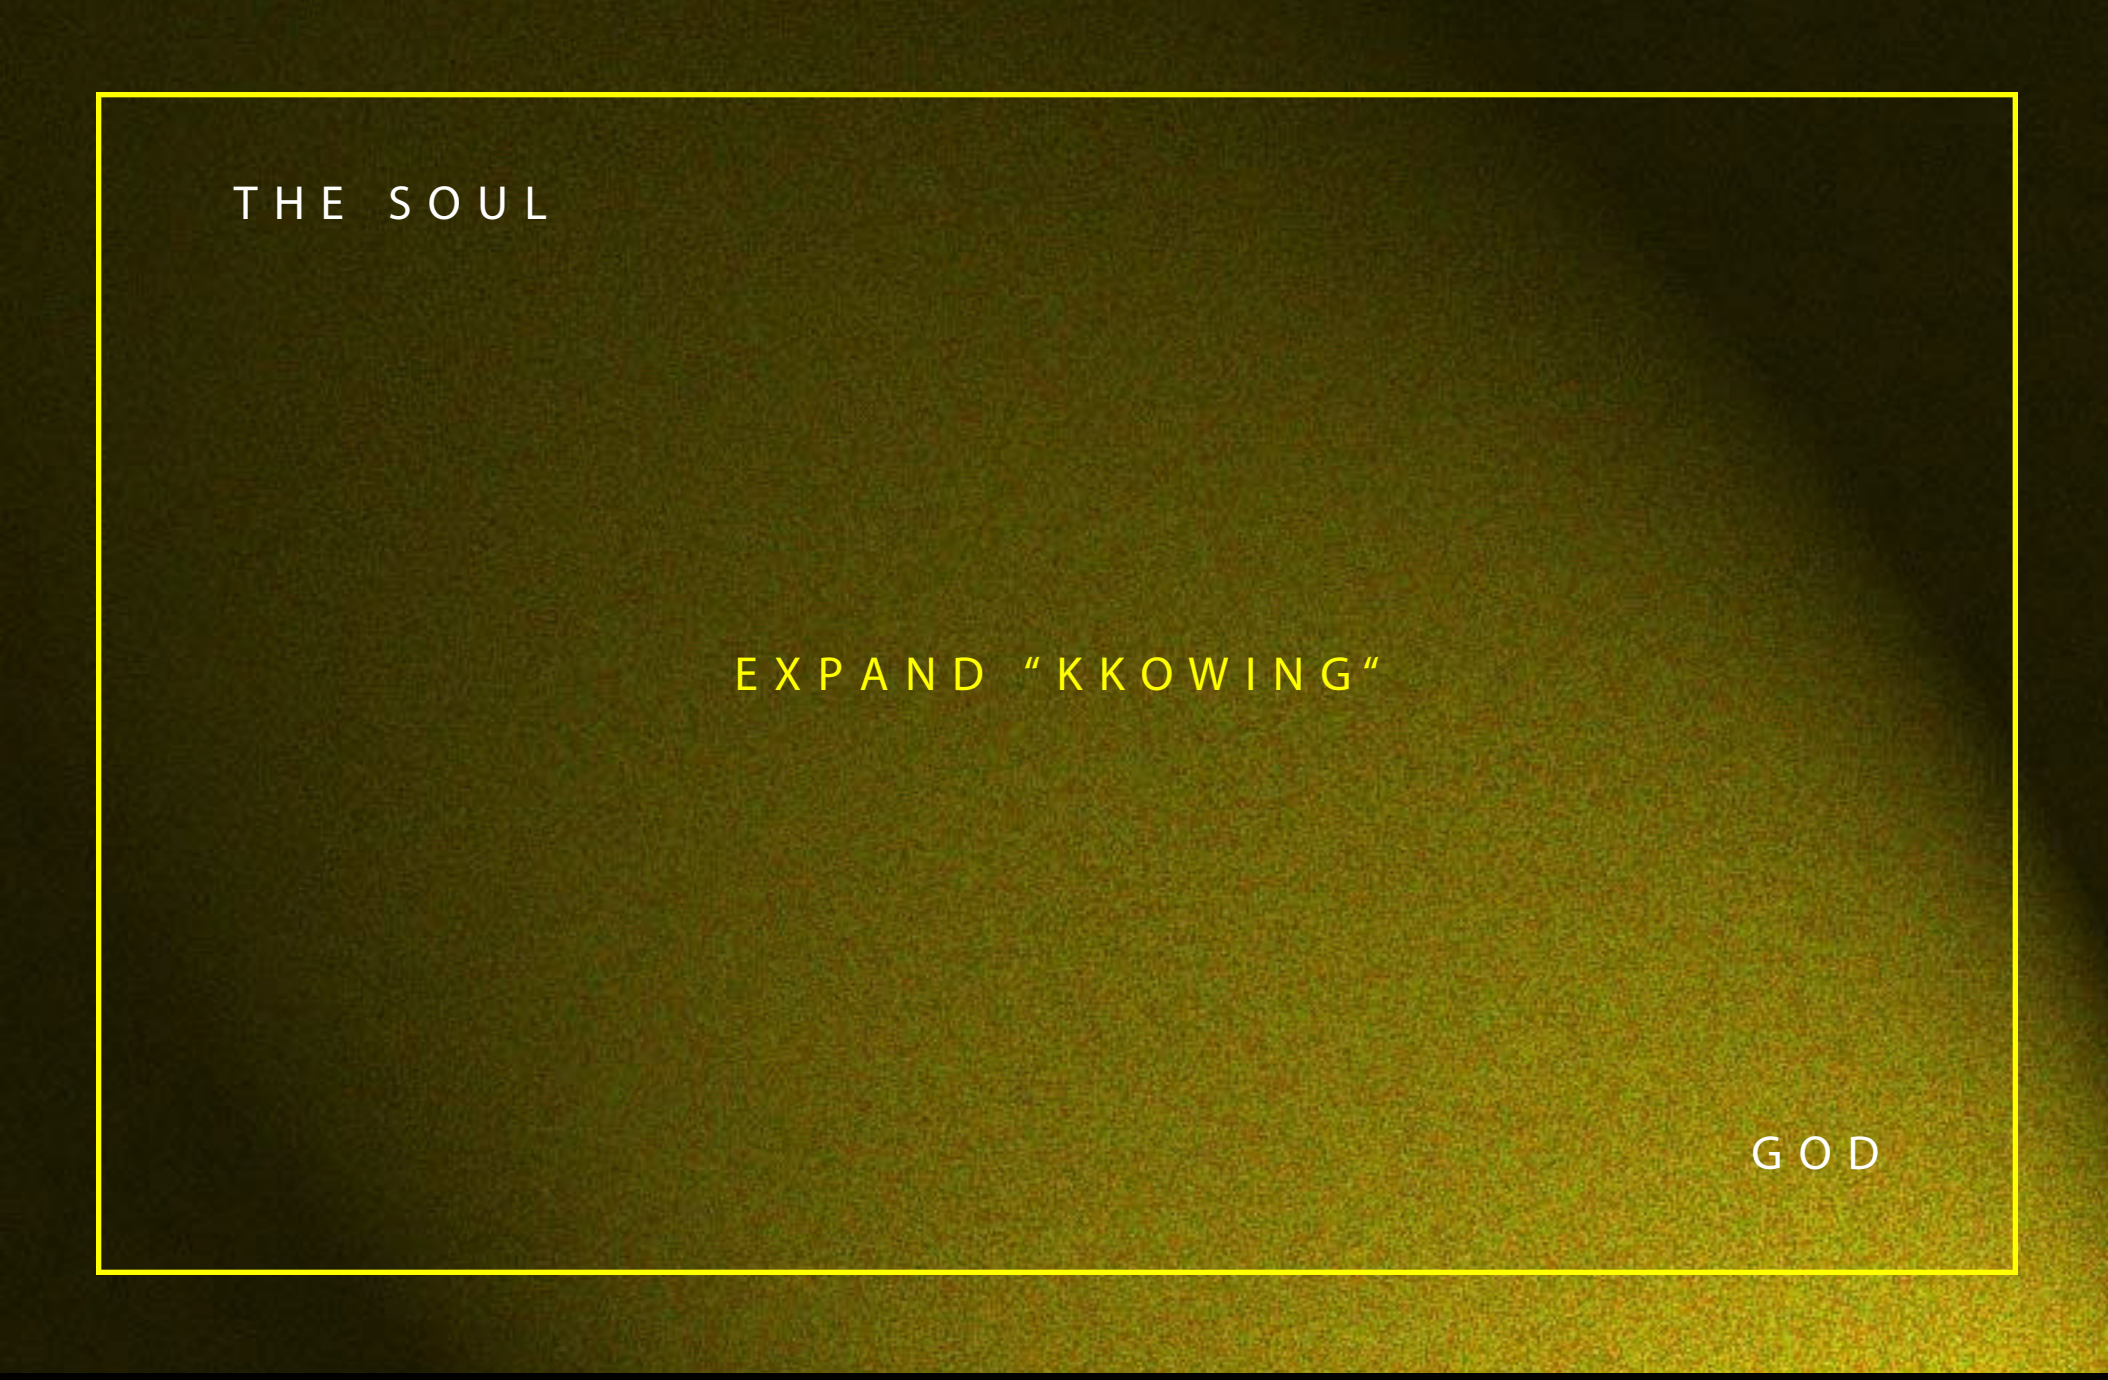
GOD

Who are we to deny ourselves the means by which ‘our existing’ is able to:



experience

gain in awareness



expand our personal concept of 'knowing'.

THE SOUL

THE UNIVERSE EXISTS

GOD

Who would be so bold as to deny the belief we have,

THE SOUL

THE UNIVERSE EXISTS

GOD

the obvious observations we make,

THE SOUL

THE UNIVERSE EXISTS

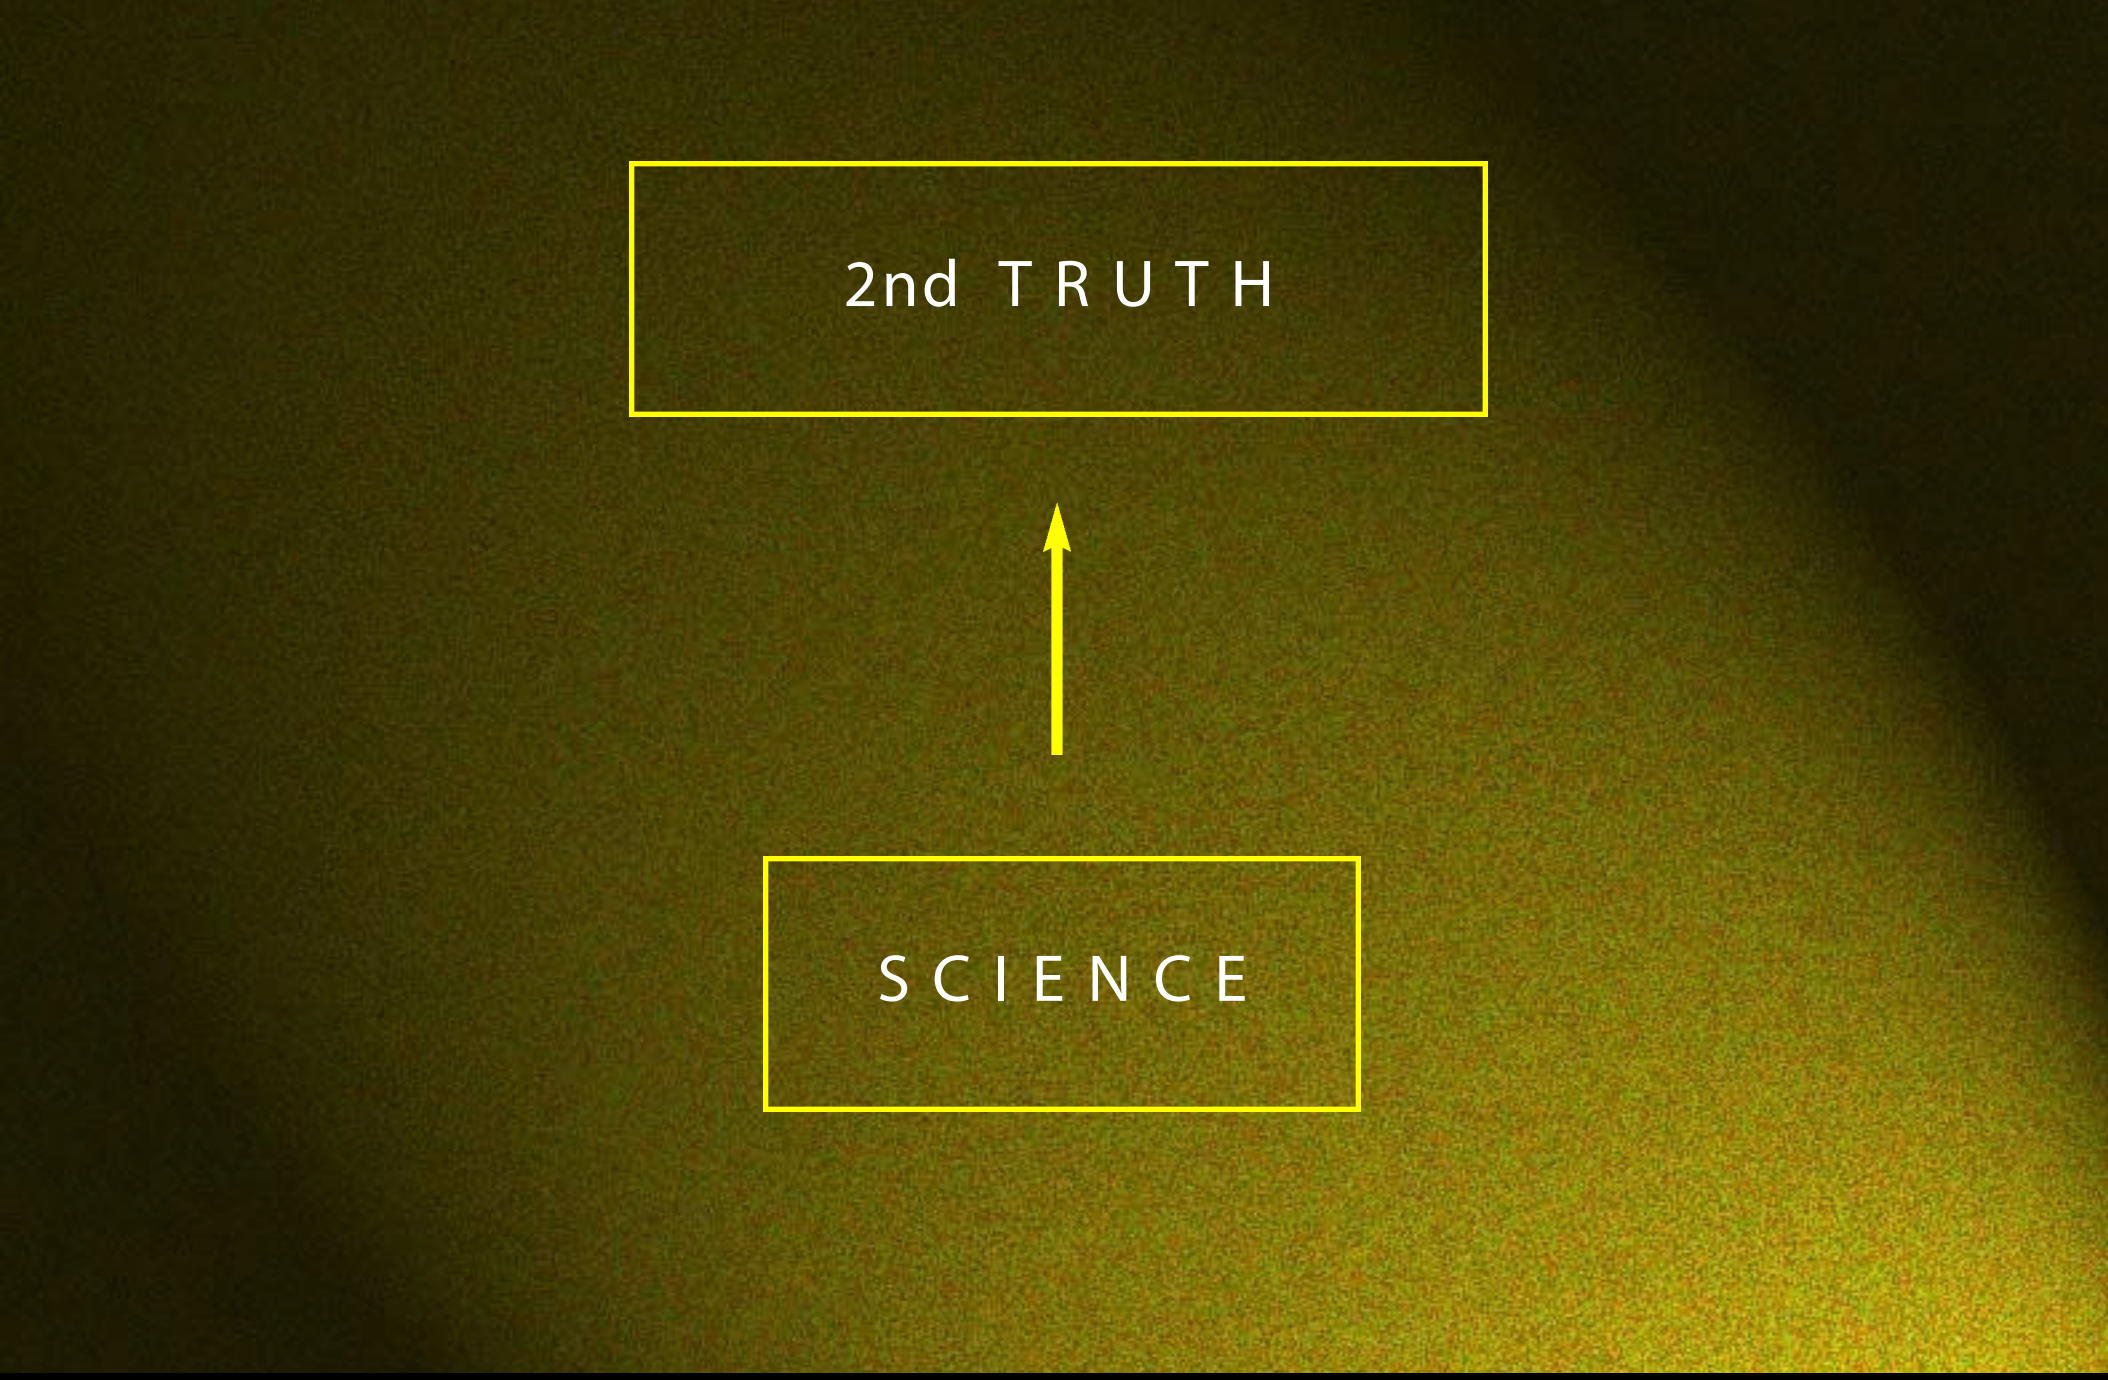
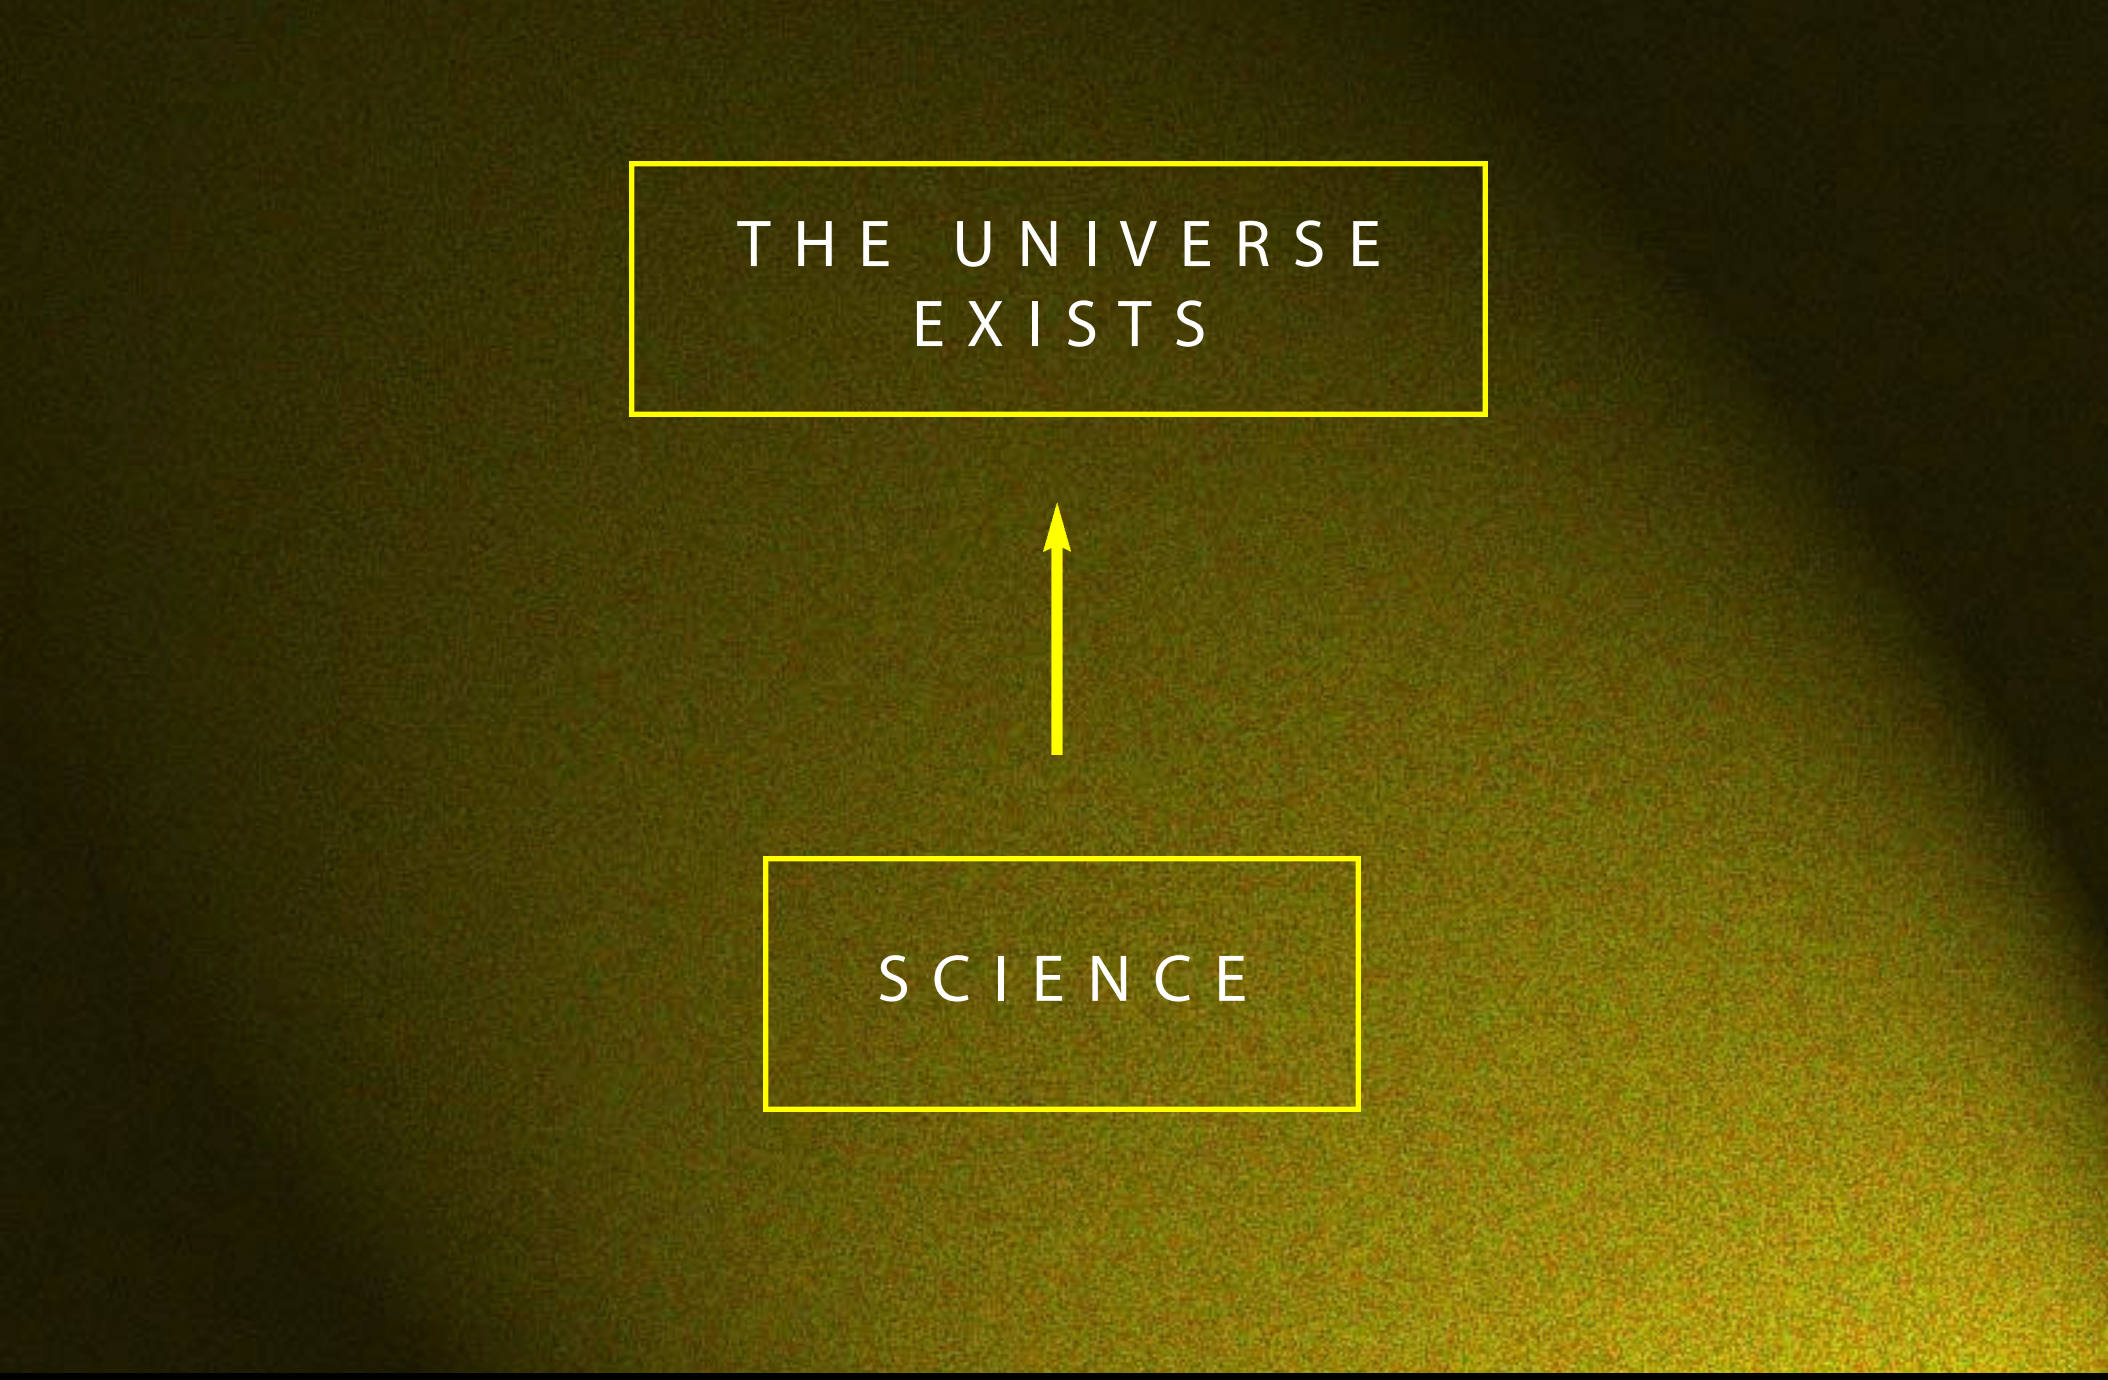
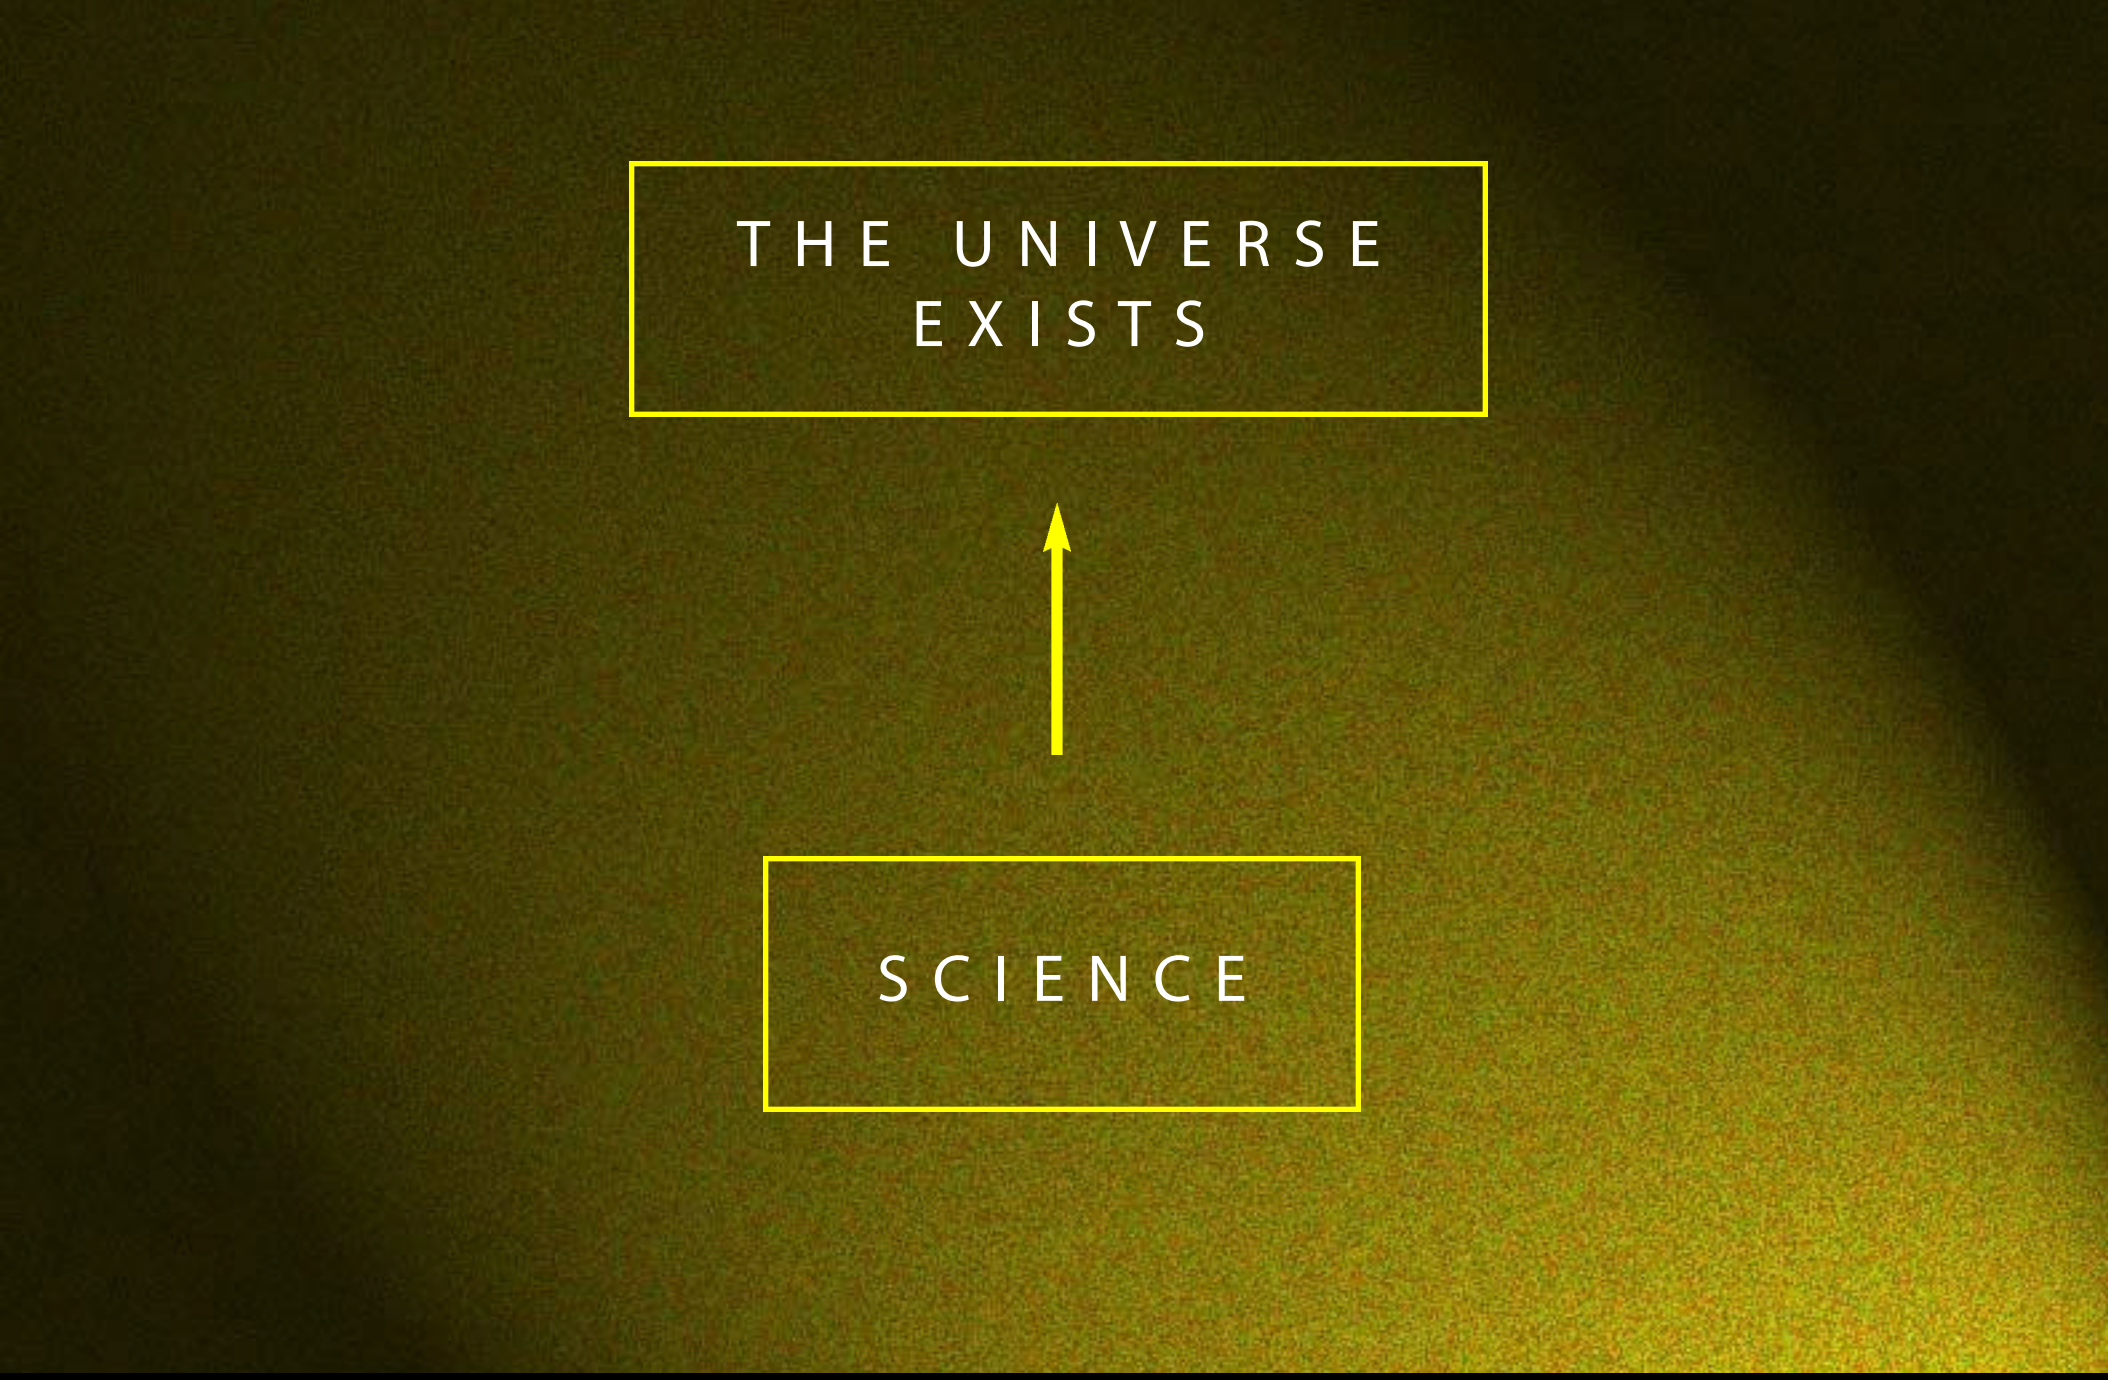
the rationality of,



the second apparent ‘truth’,



the Universe exists.



Who would refute what

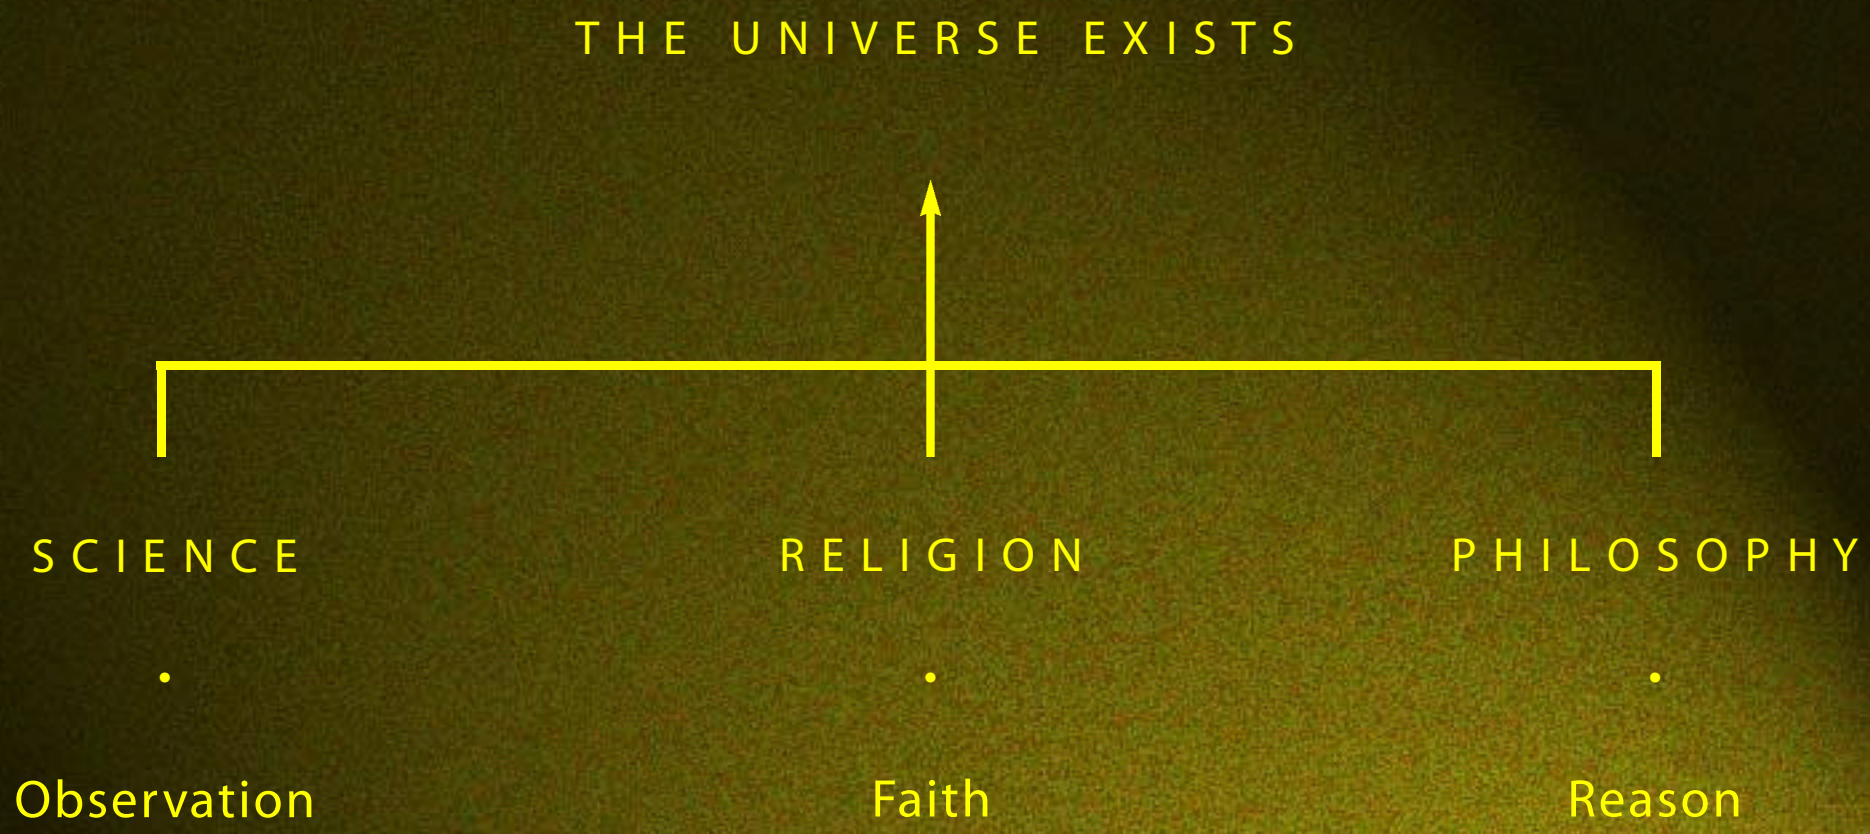
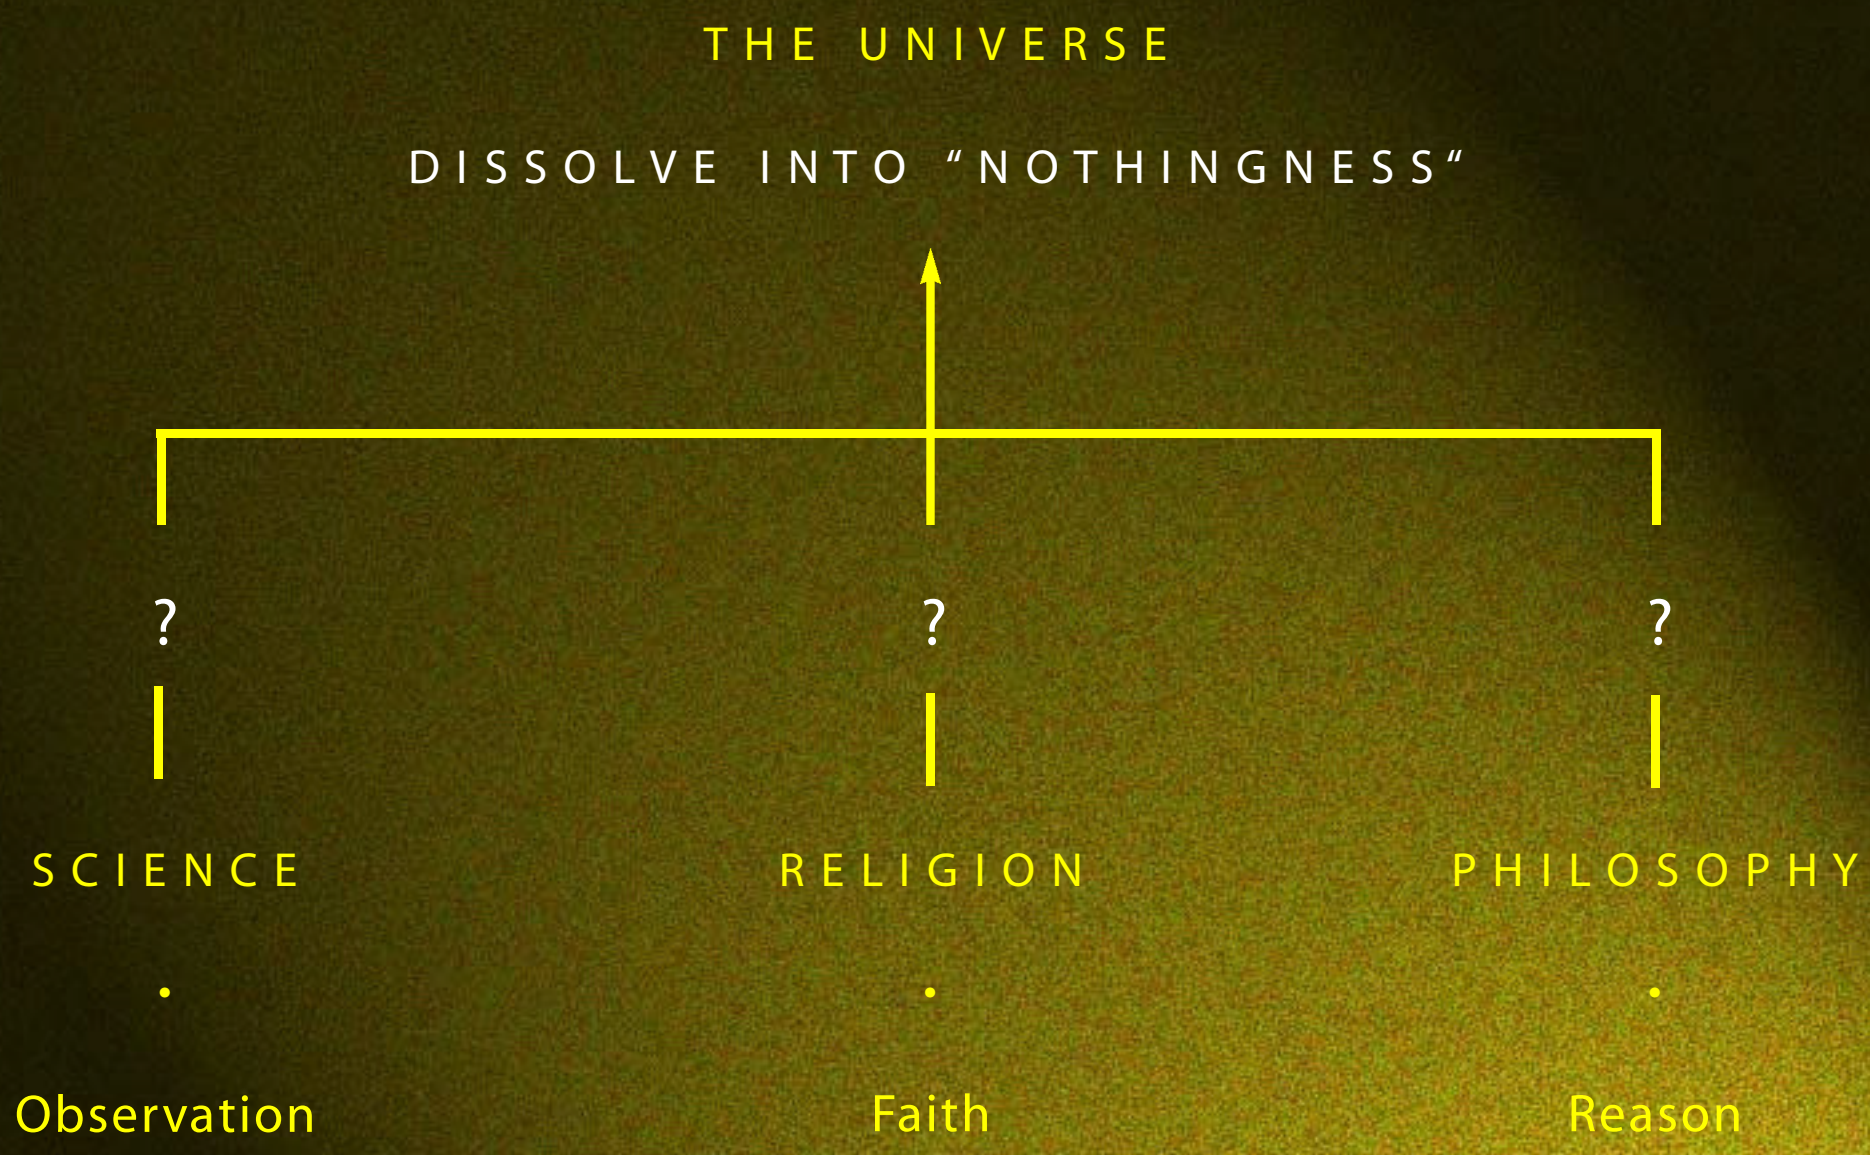
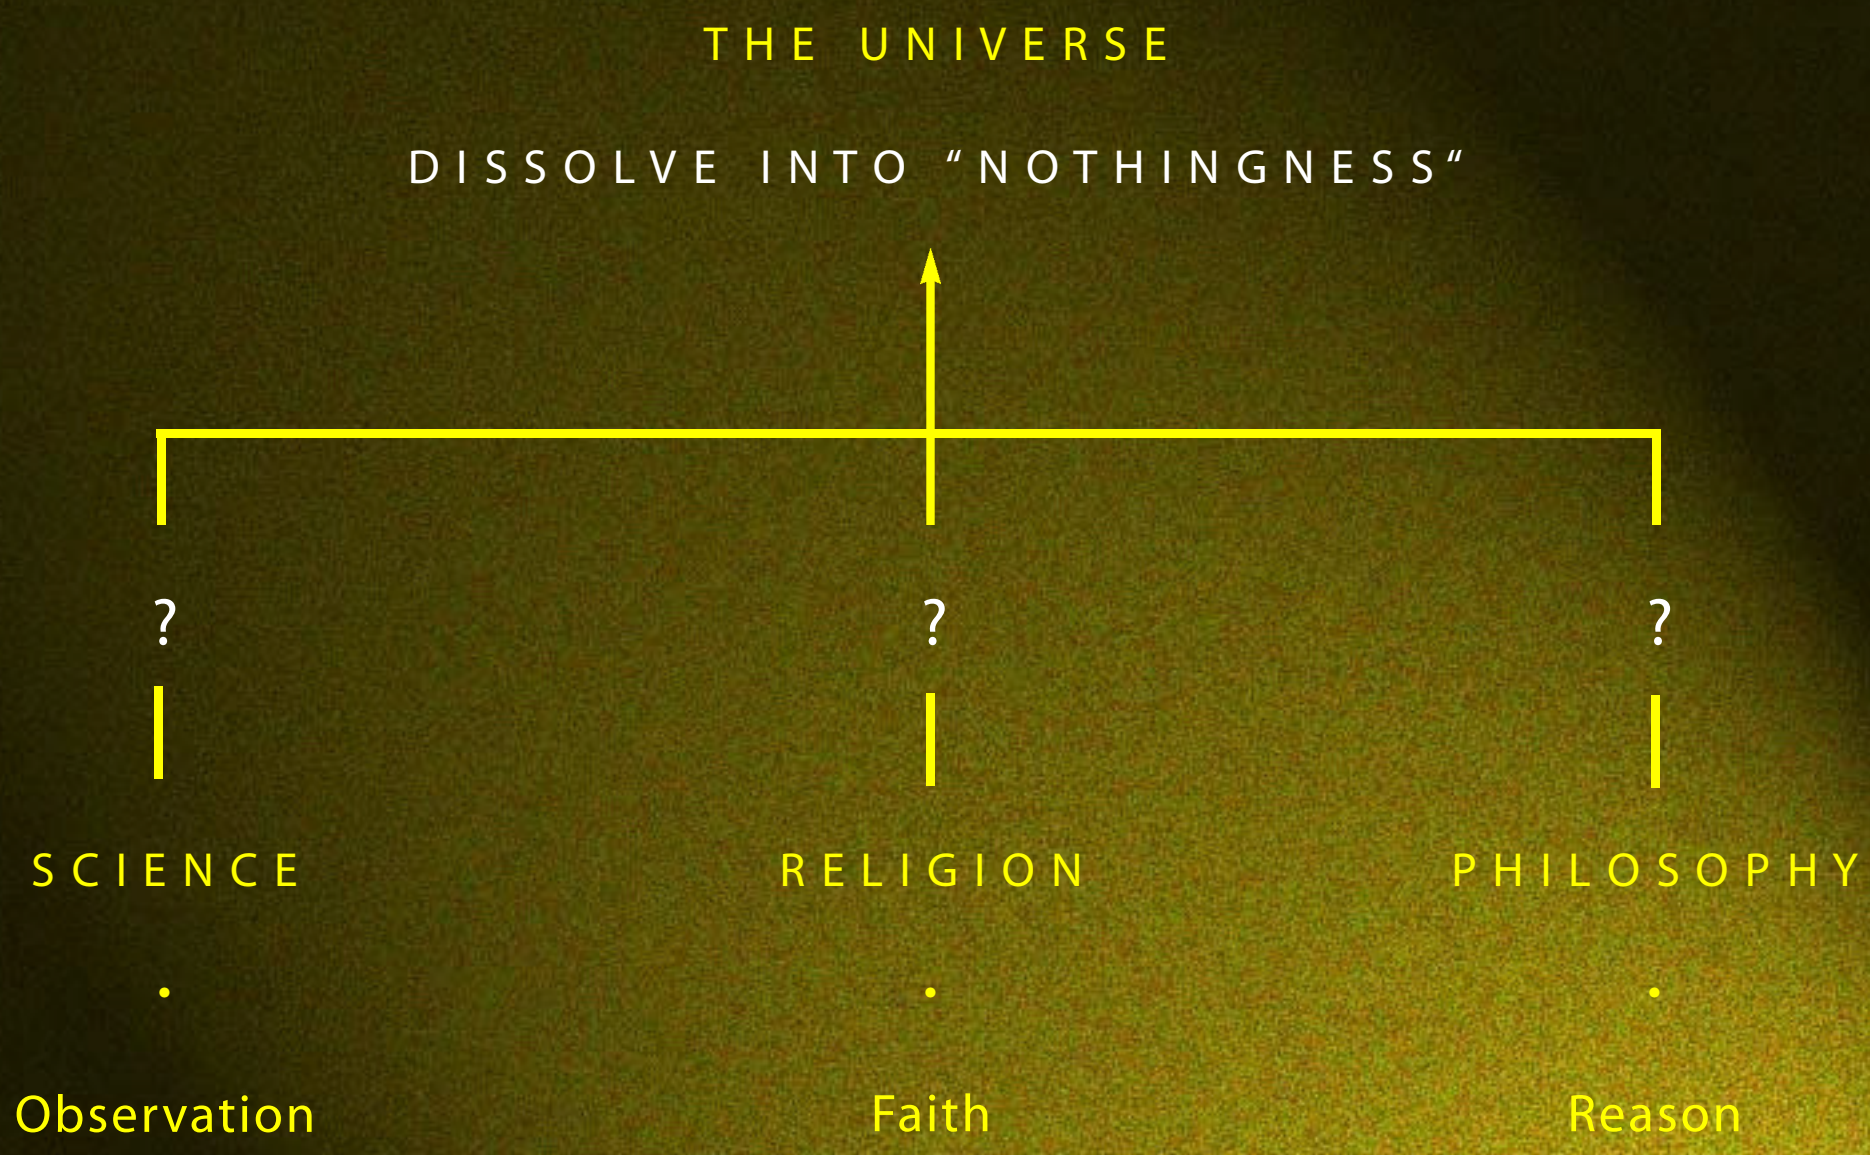
all appear to agree upon,



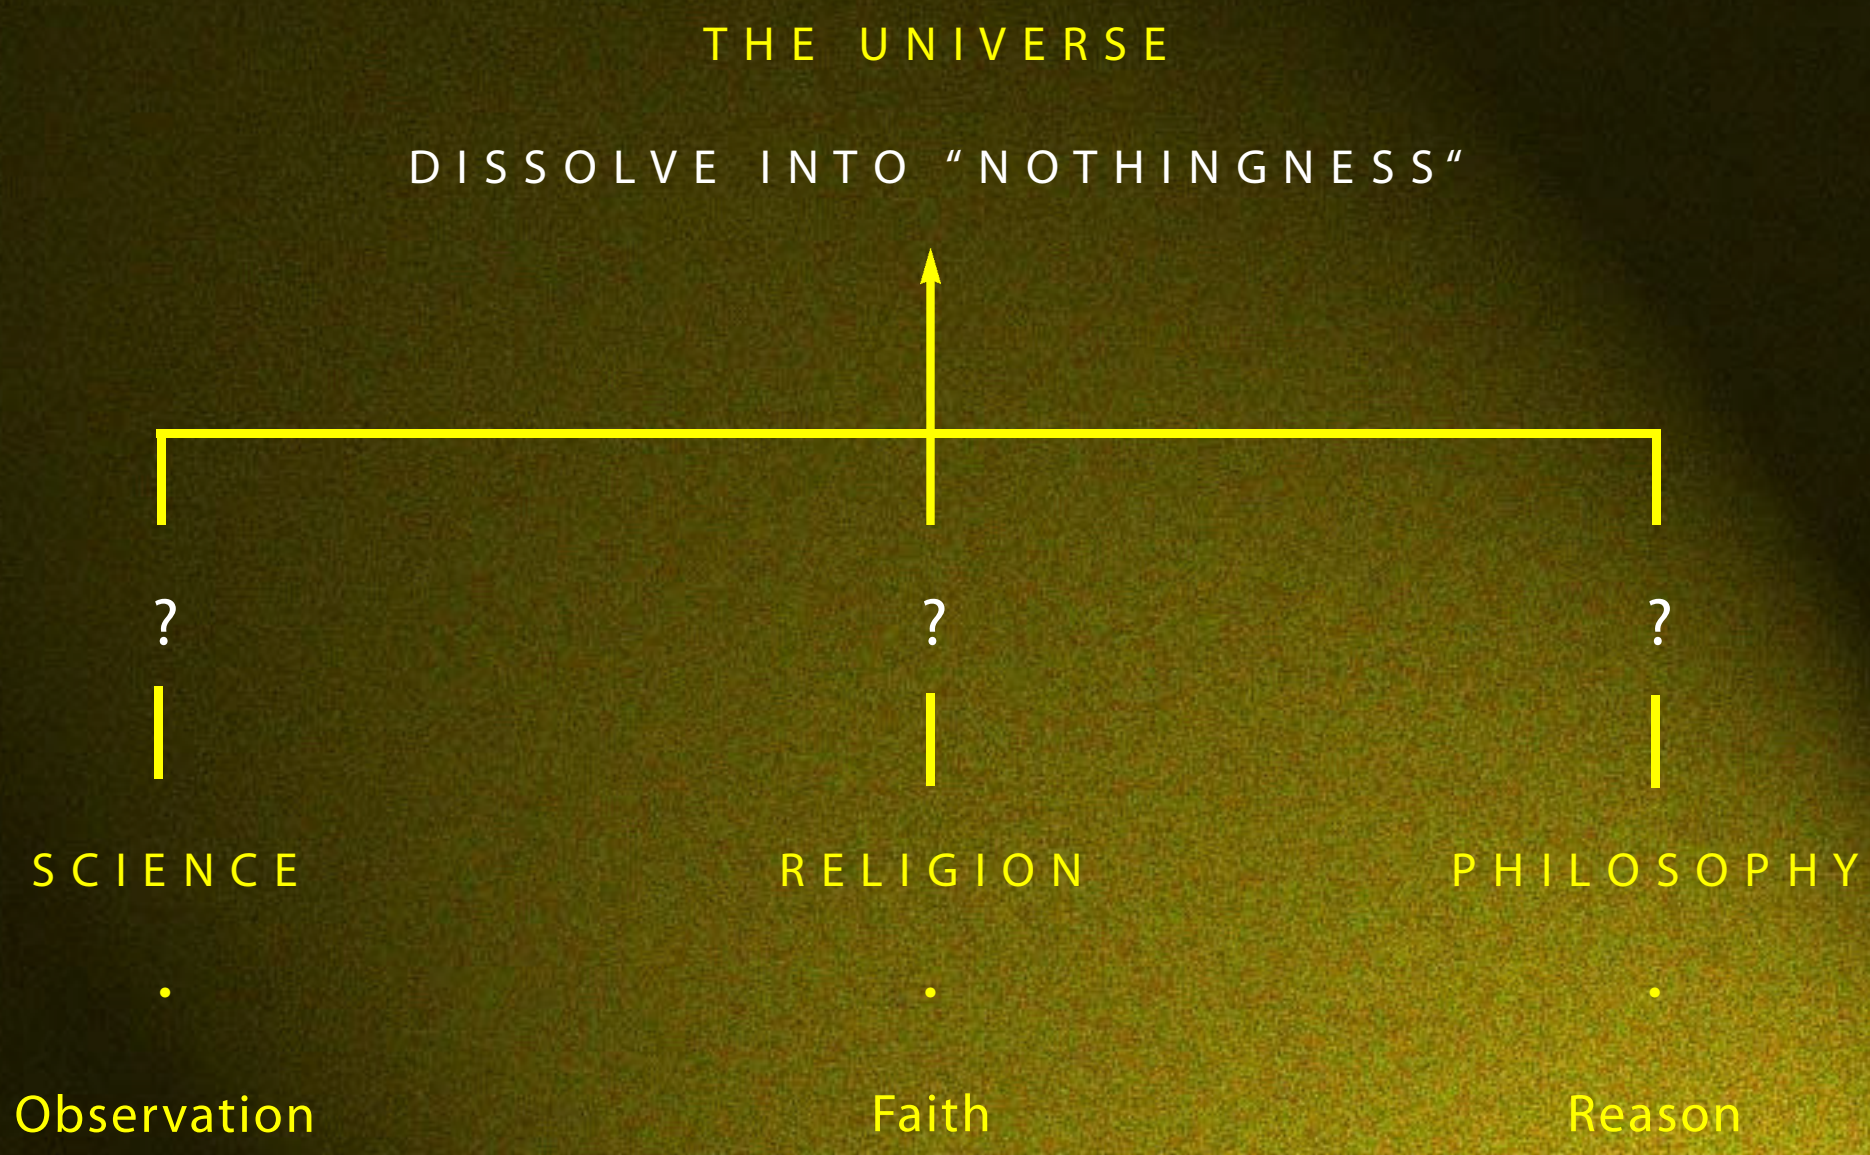
the Universe exists.



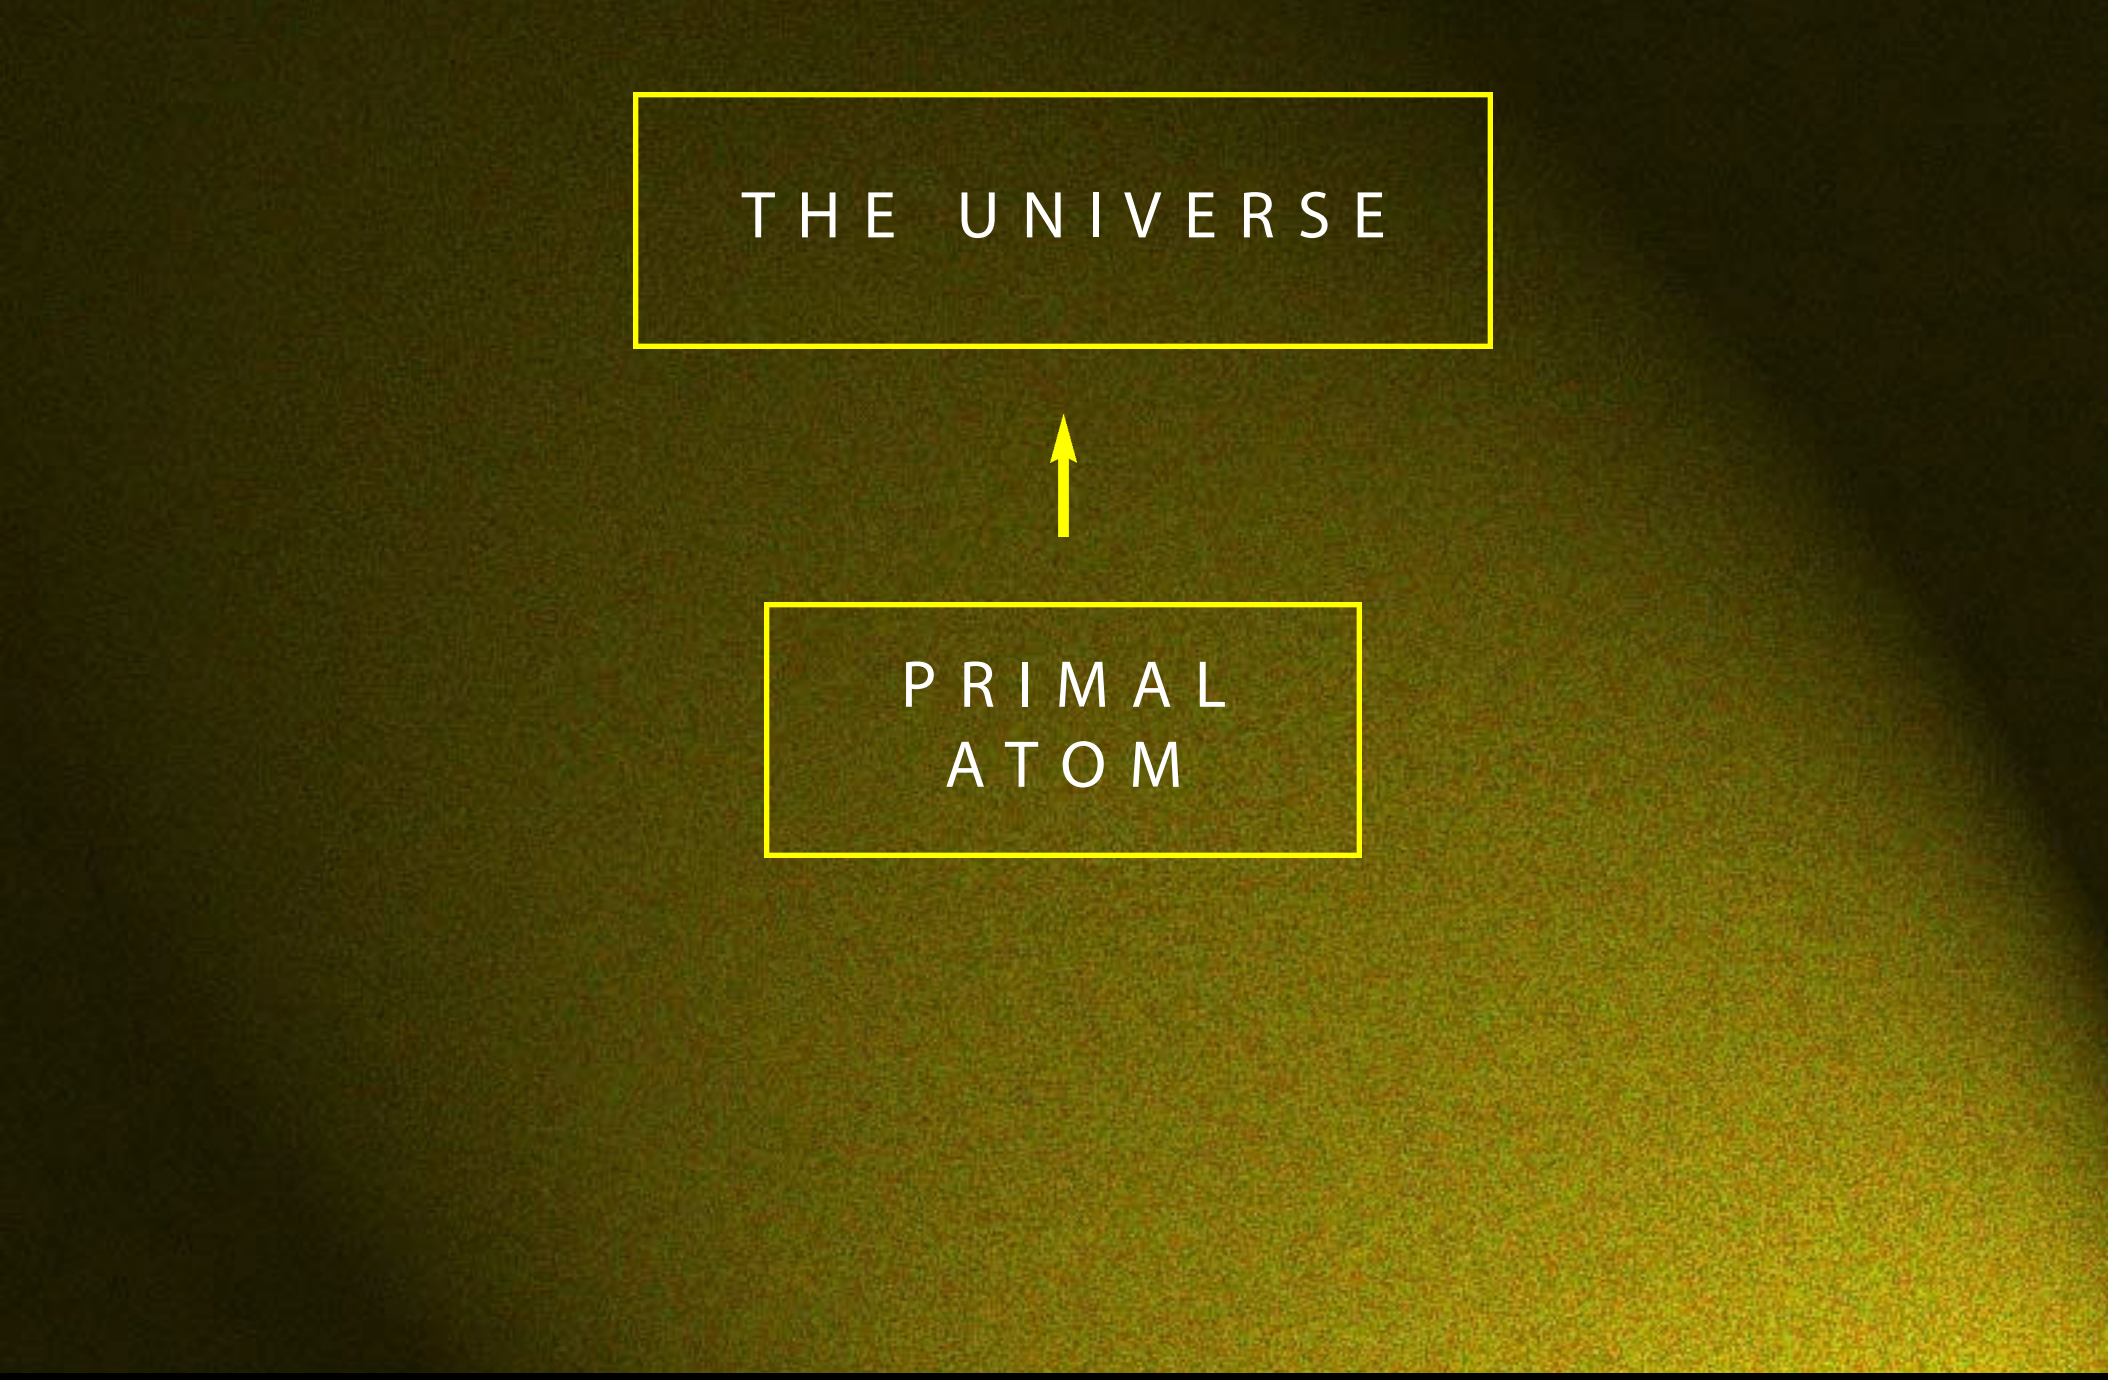
Science, religion, and philosophy may not all agree
the Universe was created.



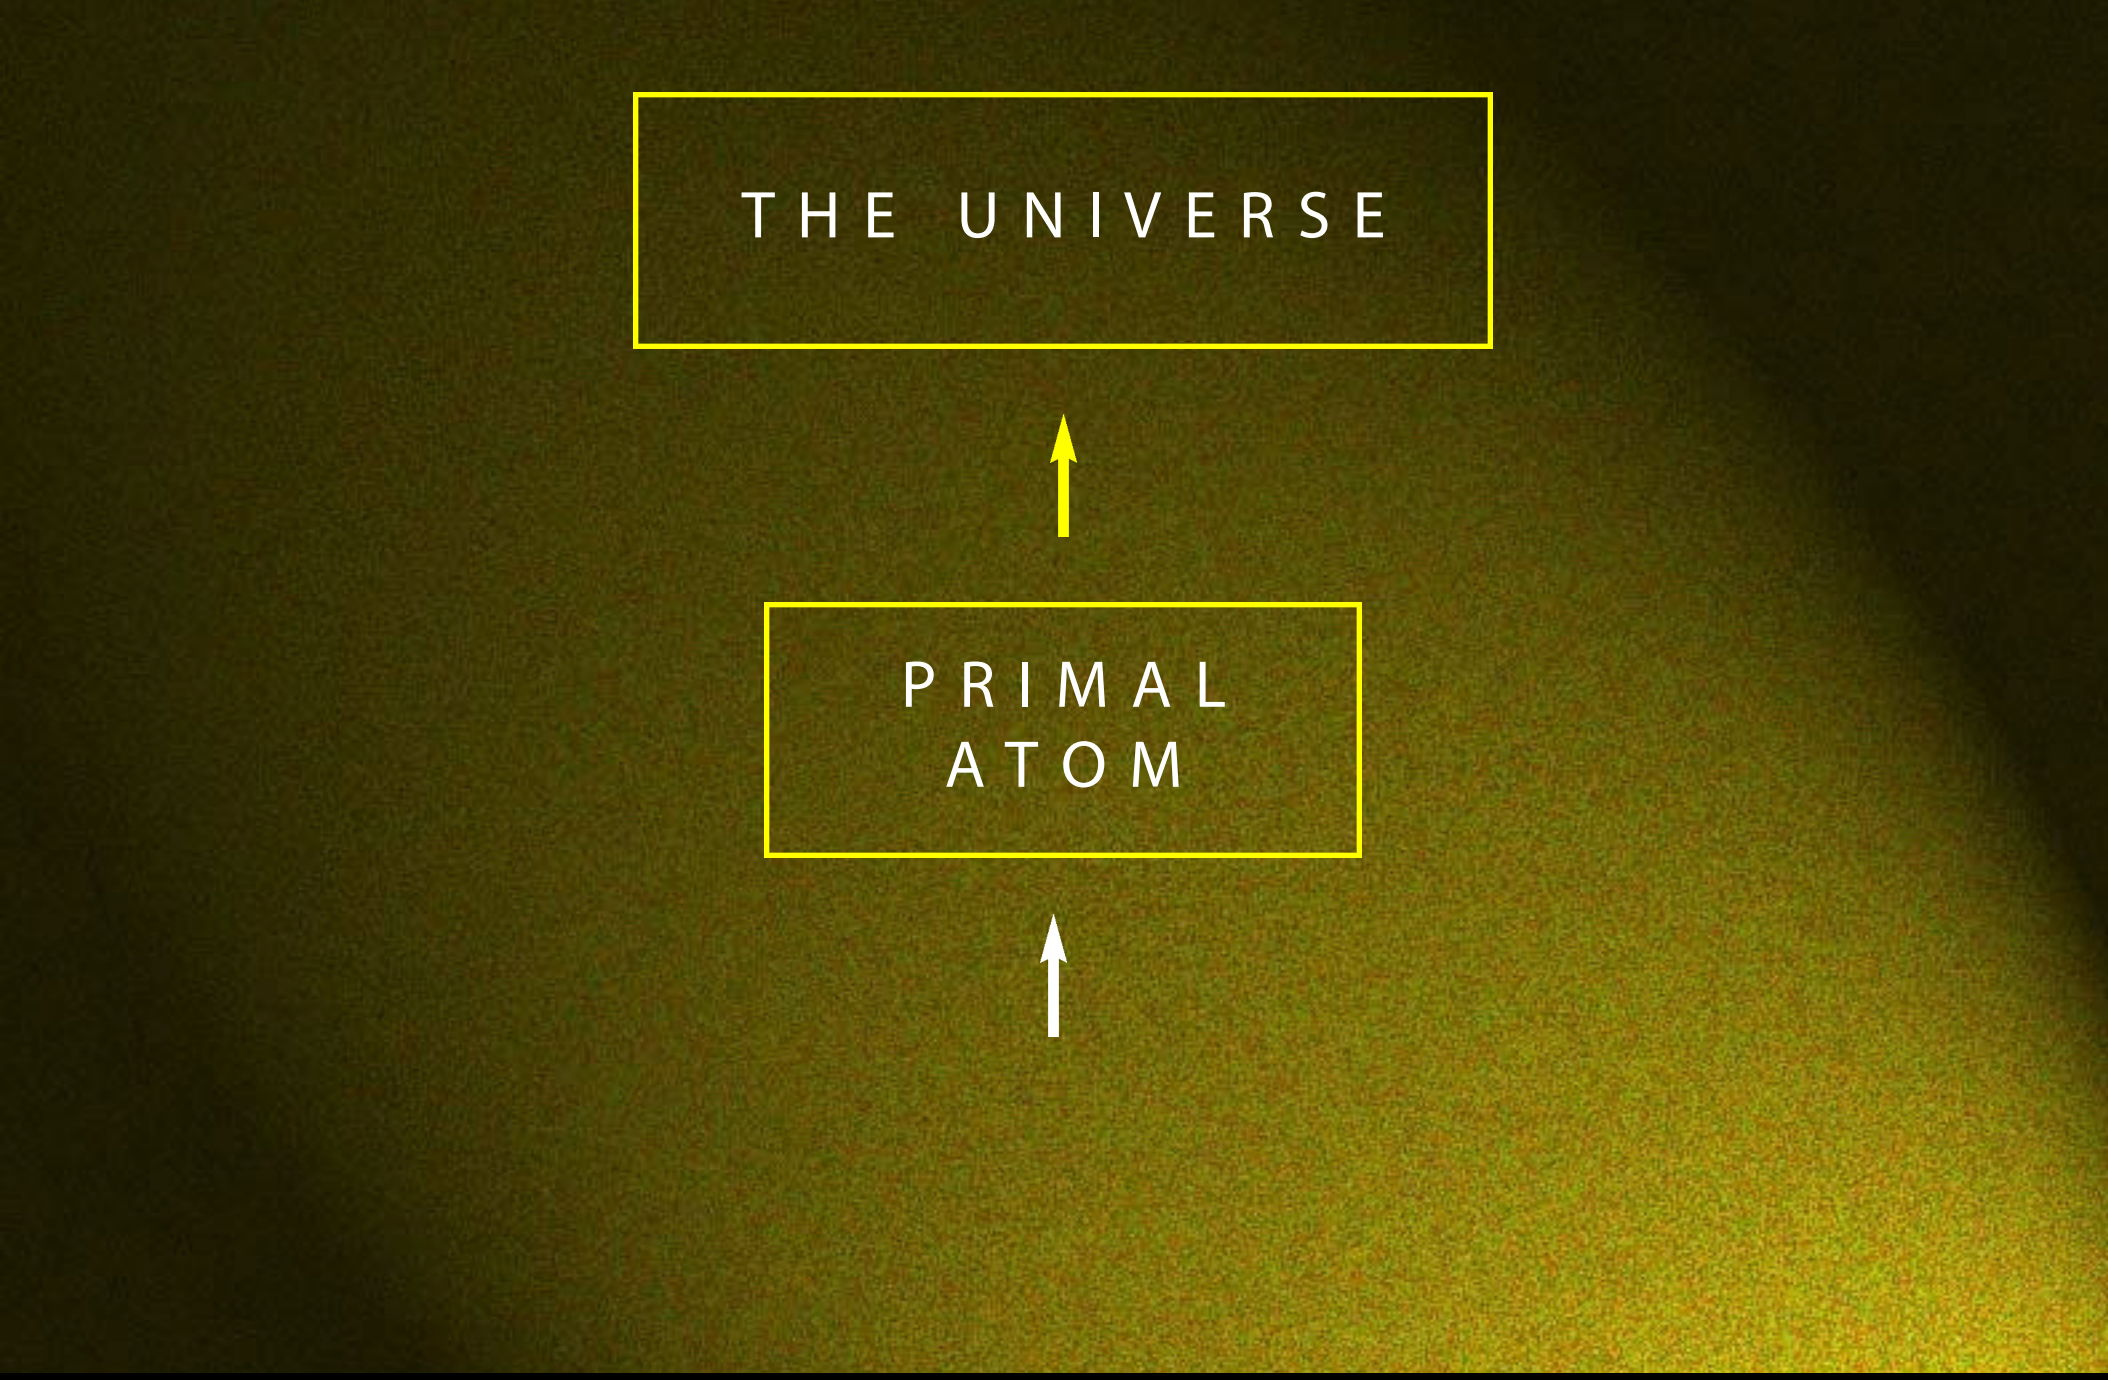
Science, religion, and philosophy may not all agree the Universe was formed from 'nothingness'.



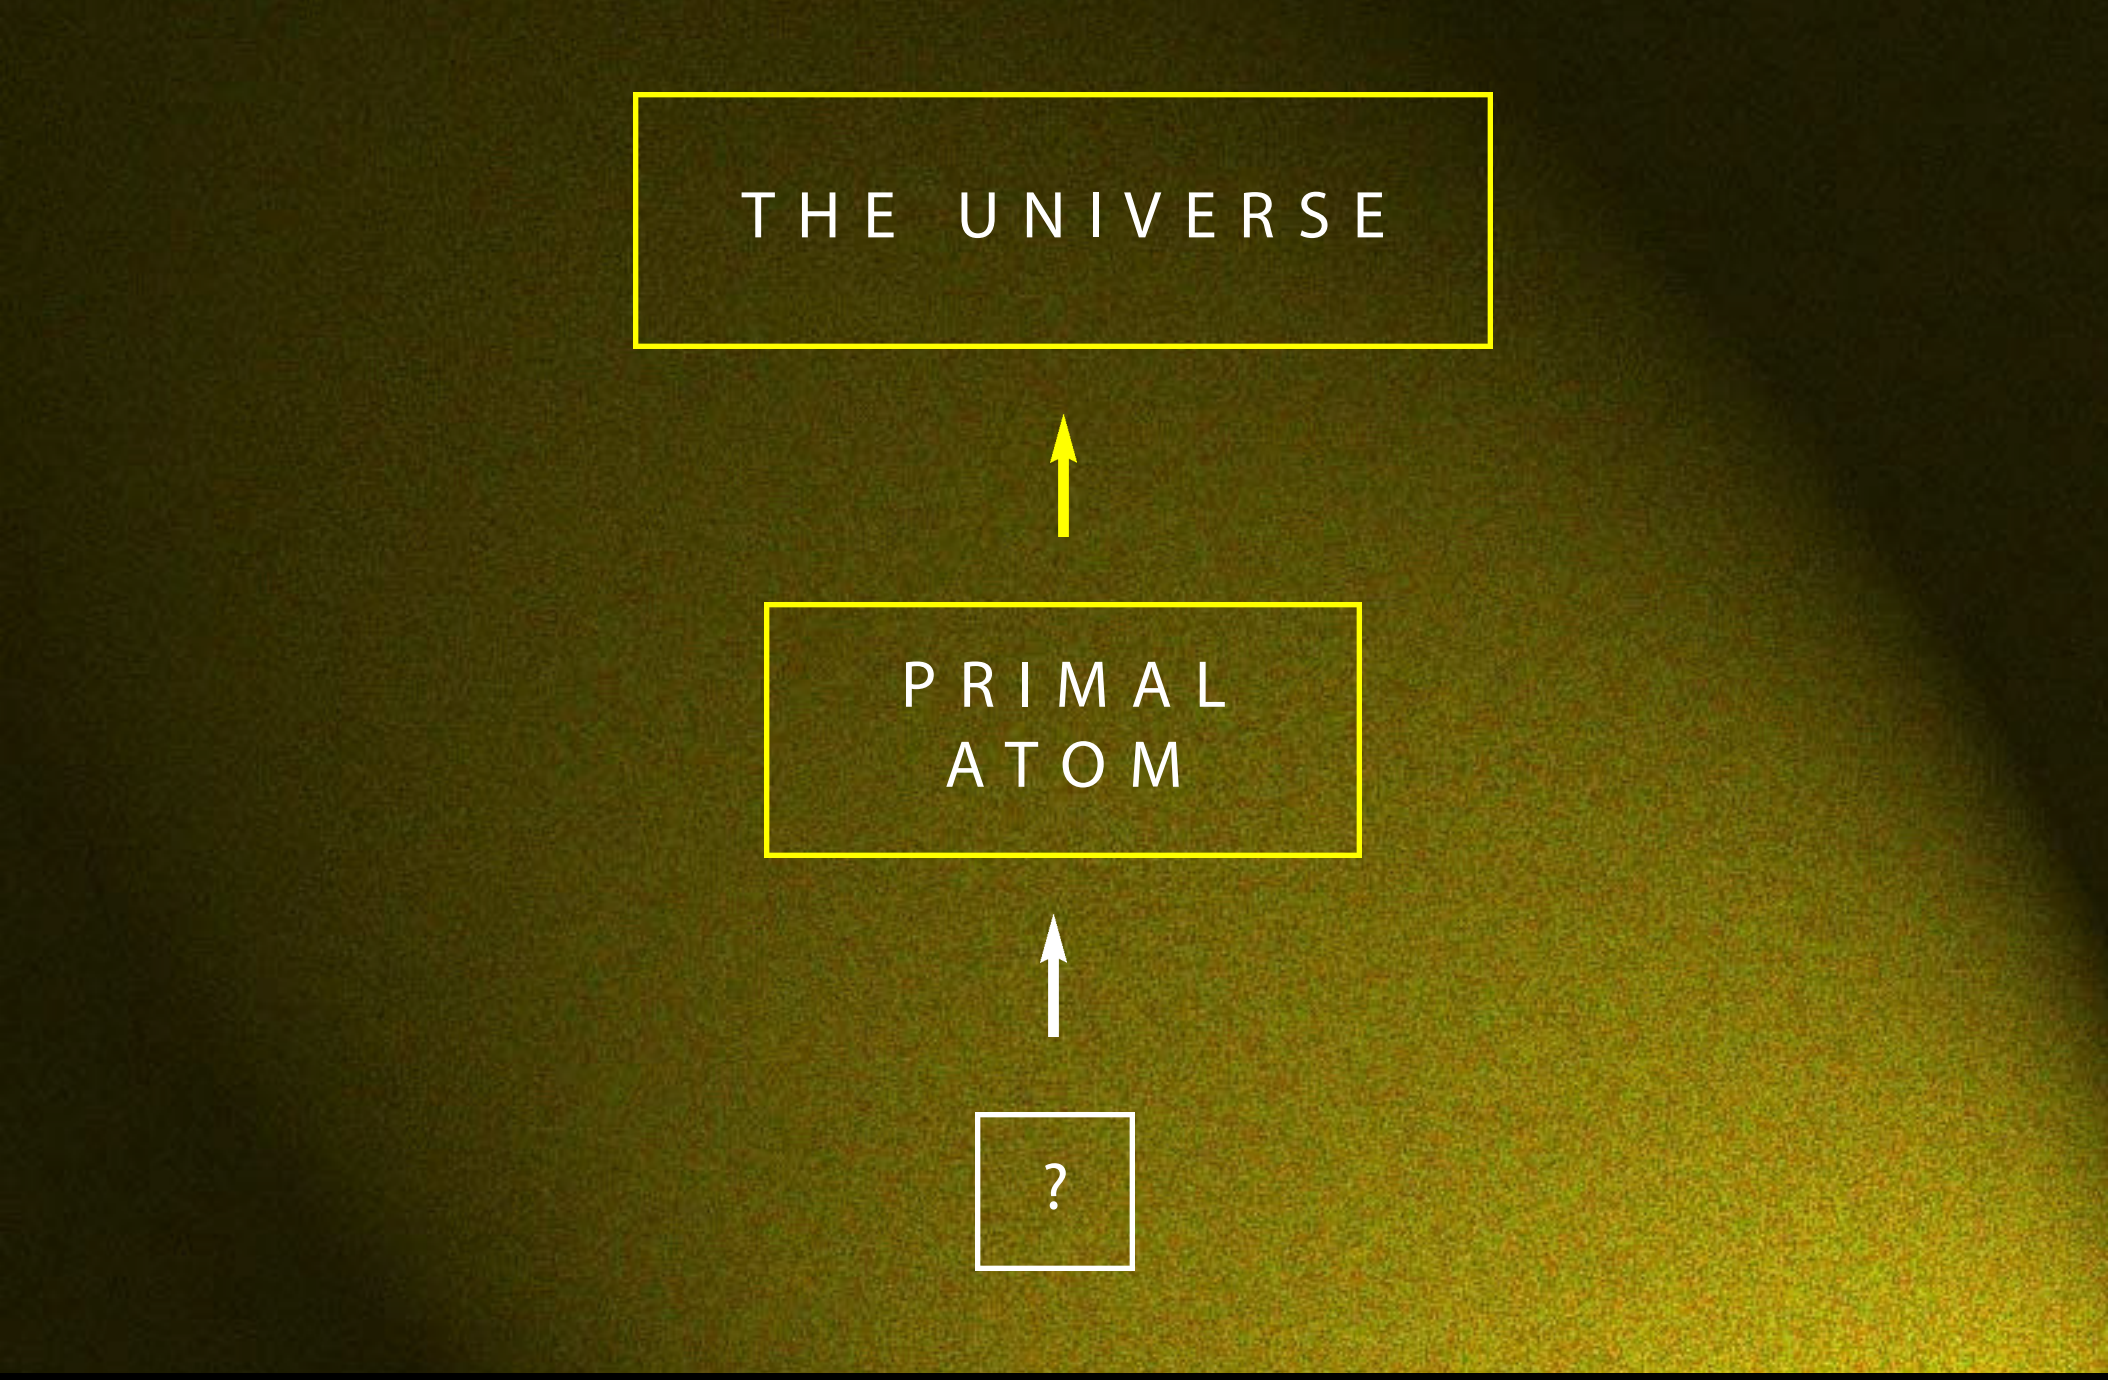
Science, religion, and philosophy may not all agree the Universe will dissolve into 'nothingness'.



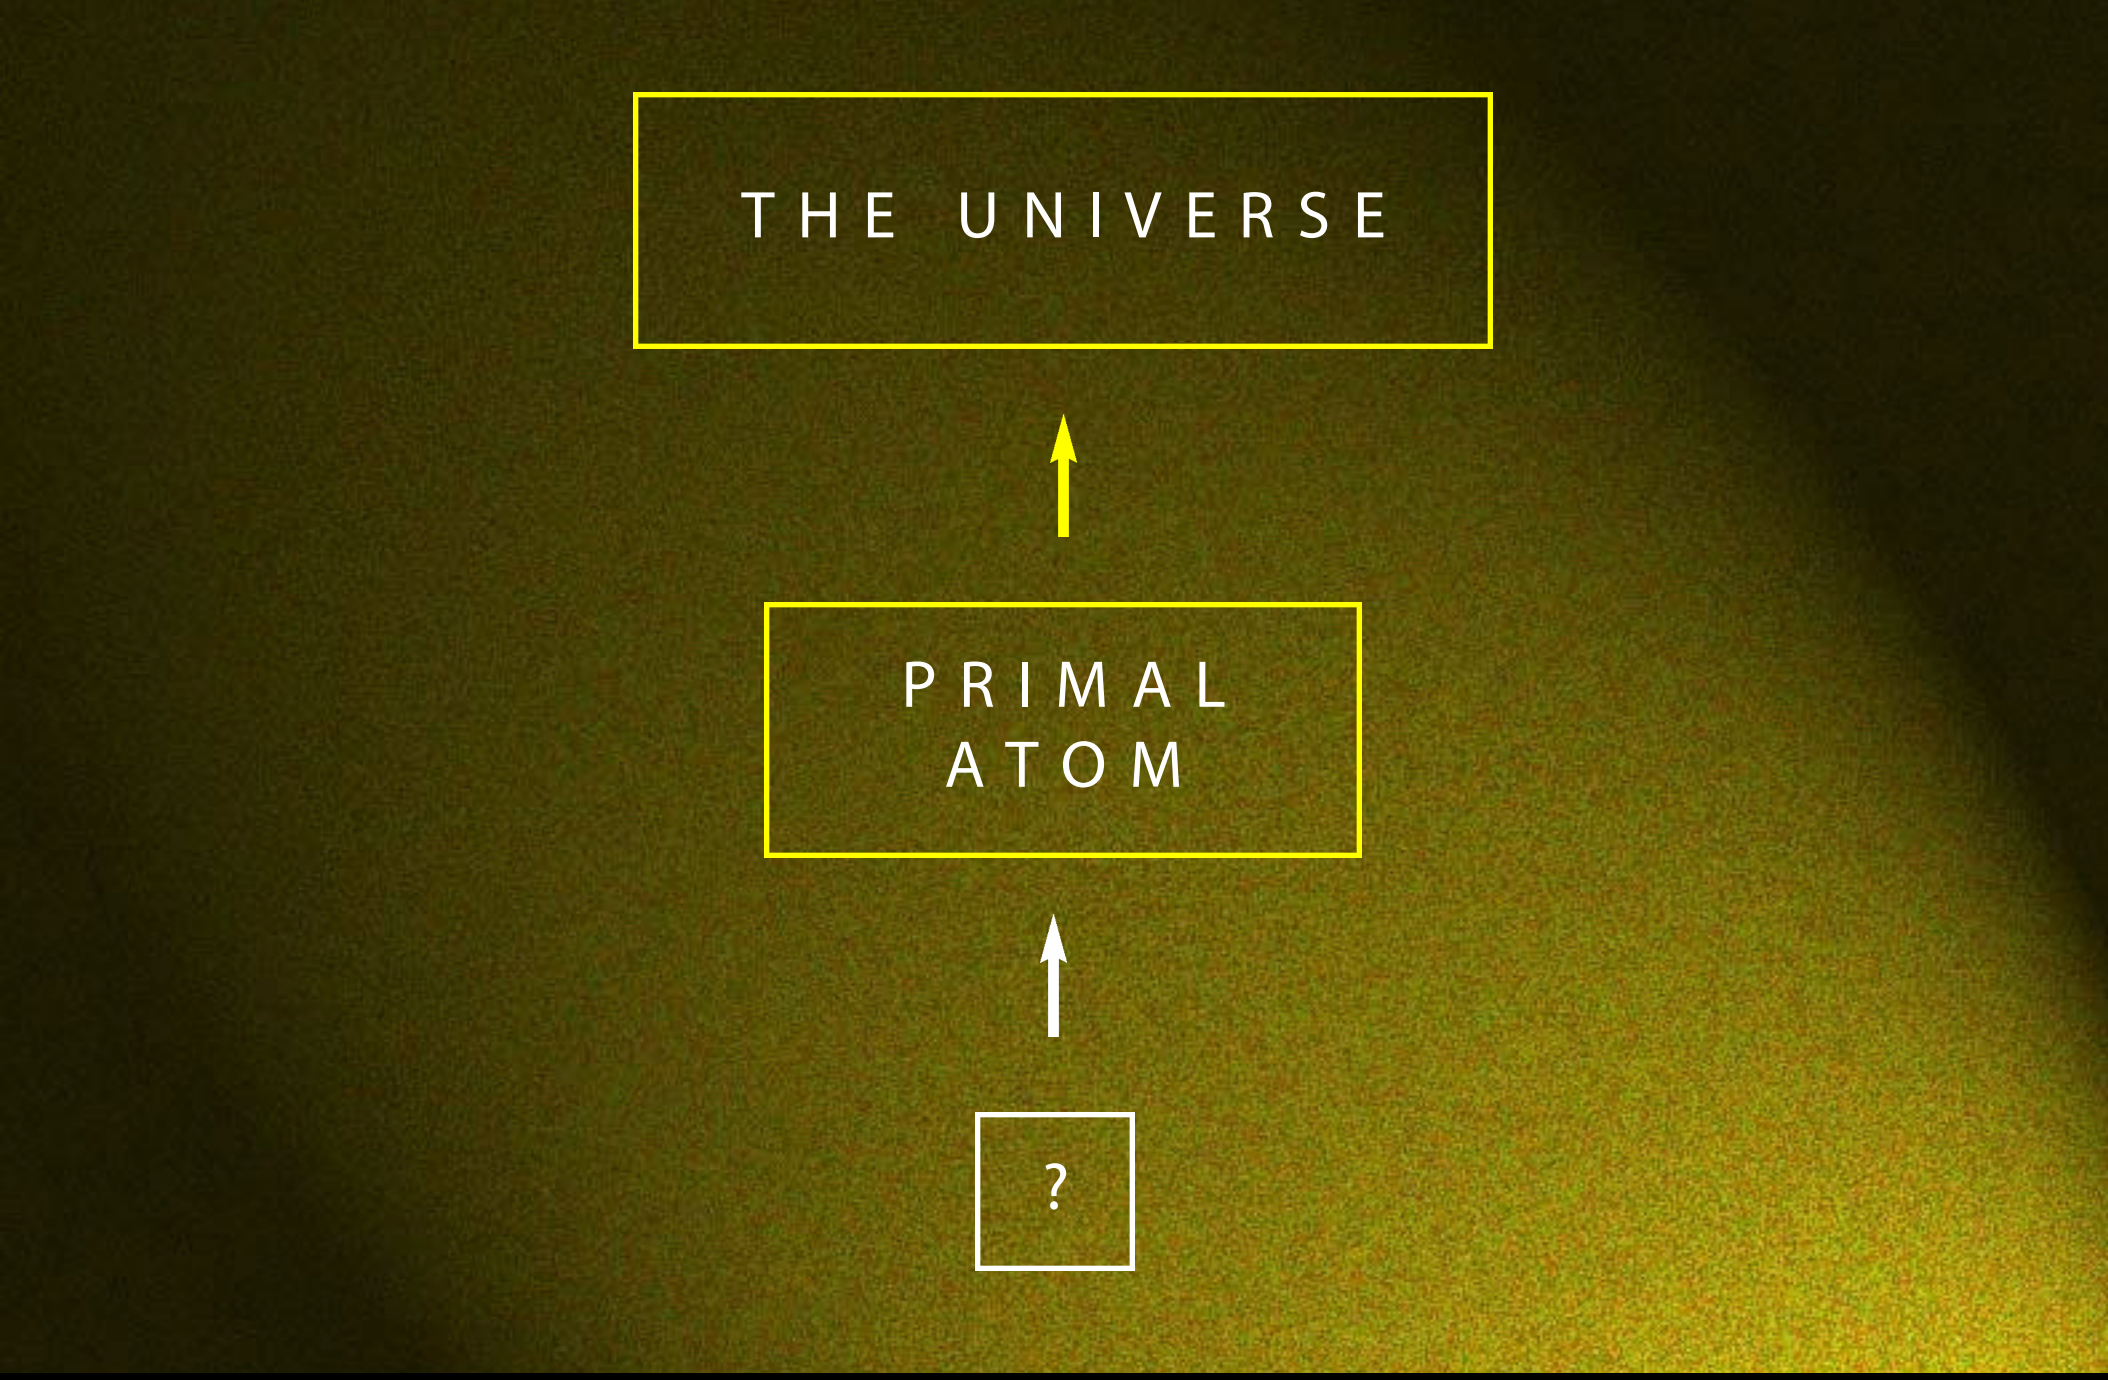
Science has recently been toying with the idea of the Universe having been initiated from a ‘primal atom’



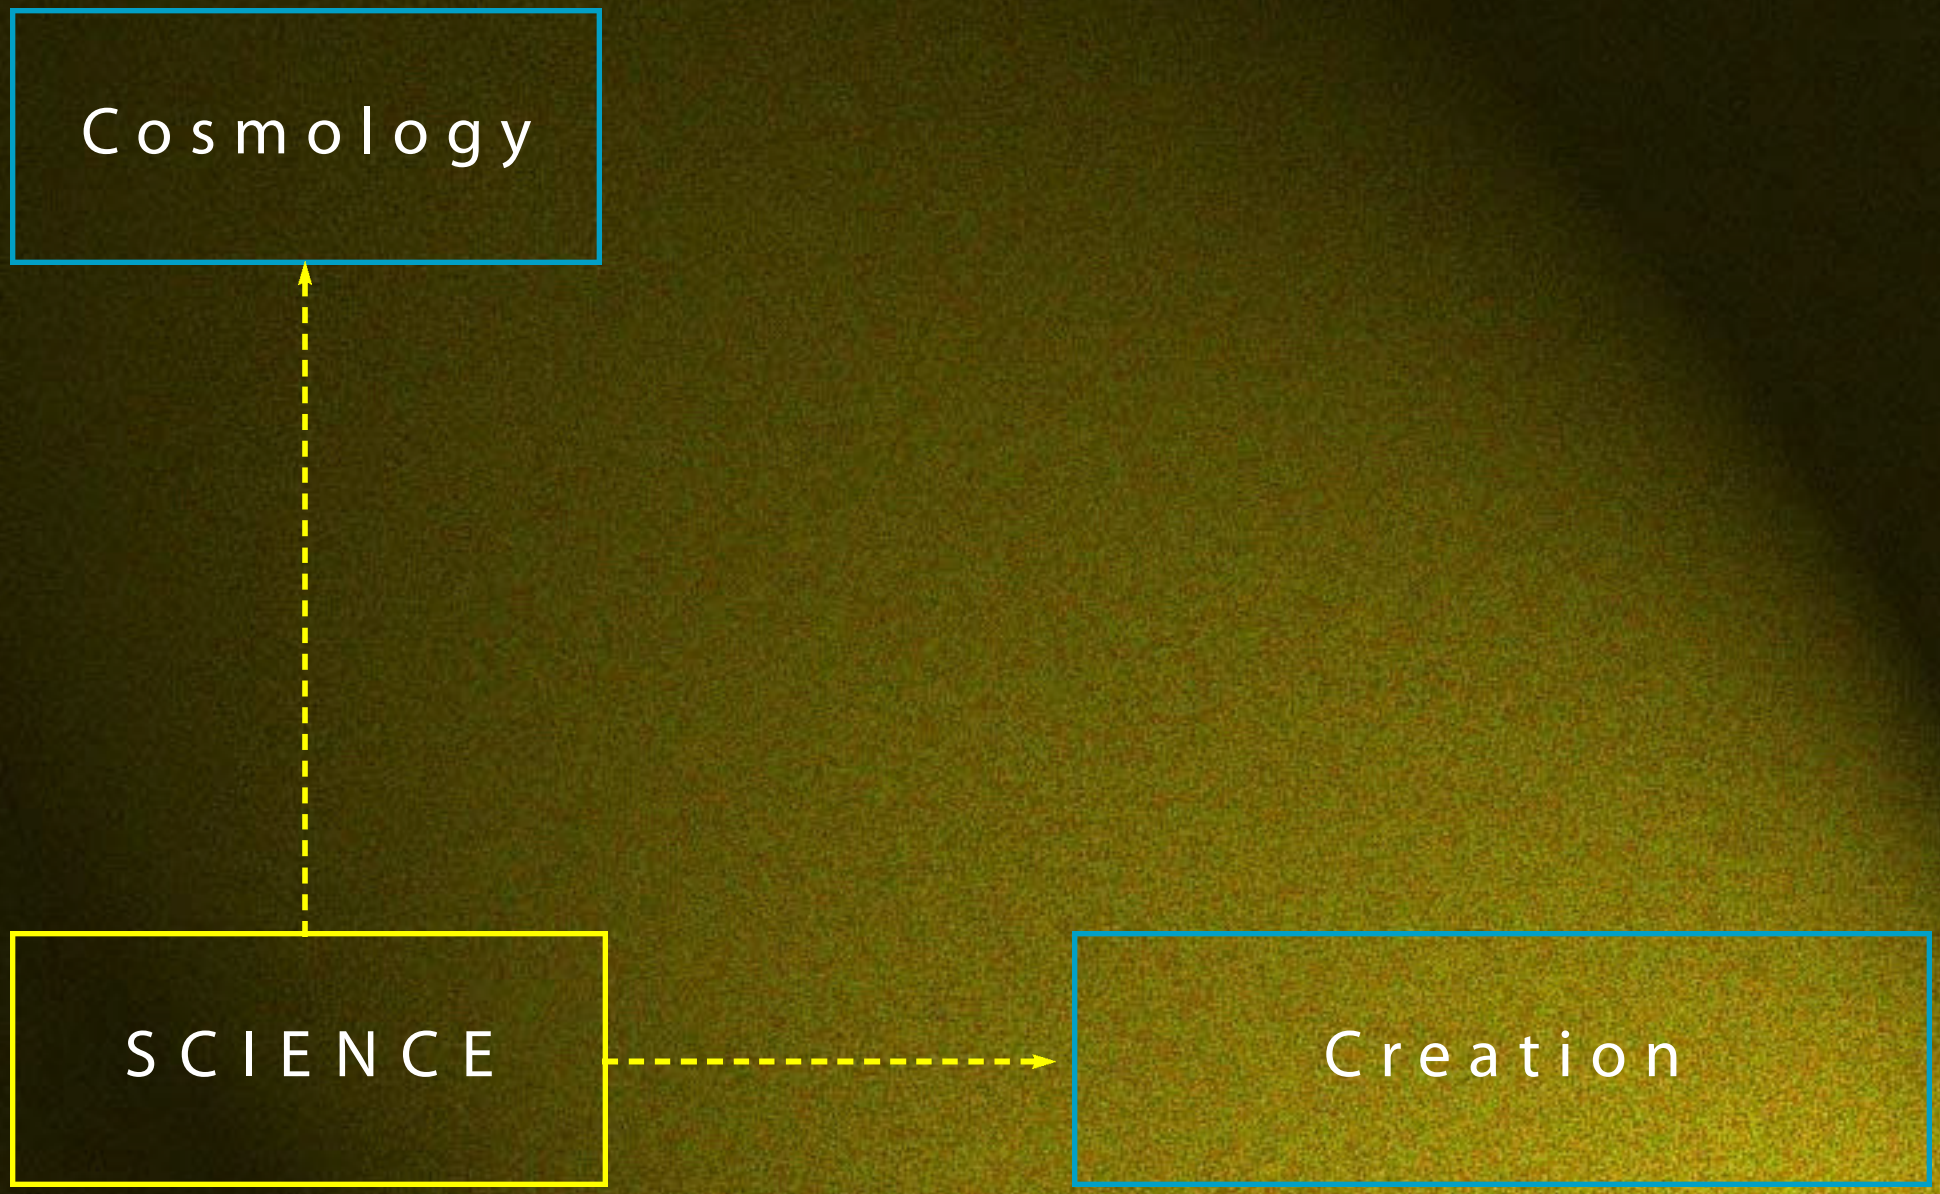
but science has not yet speculated beyond this point.



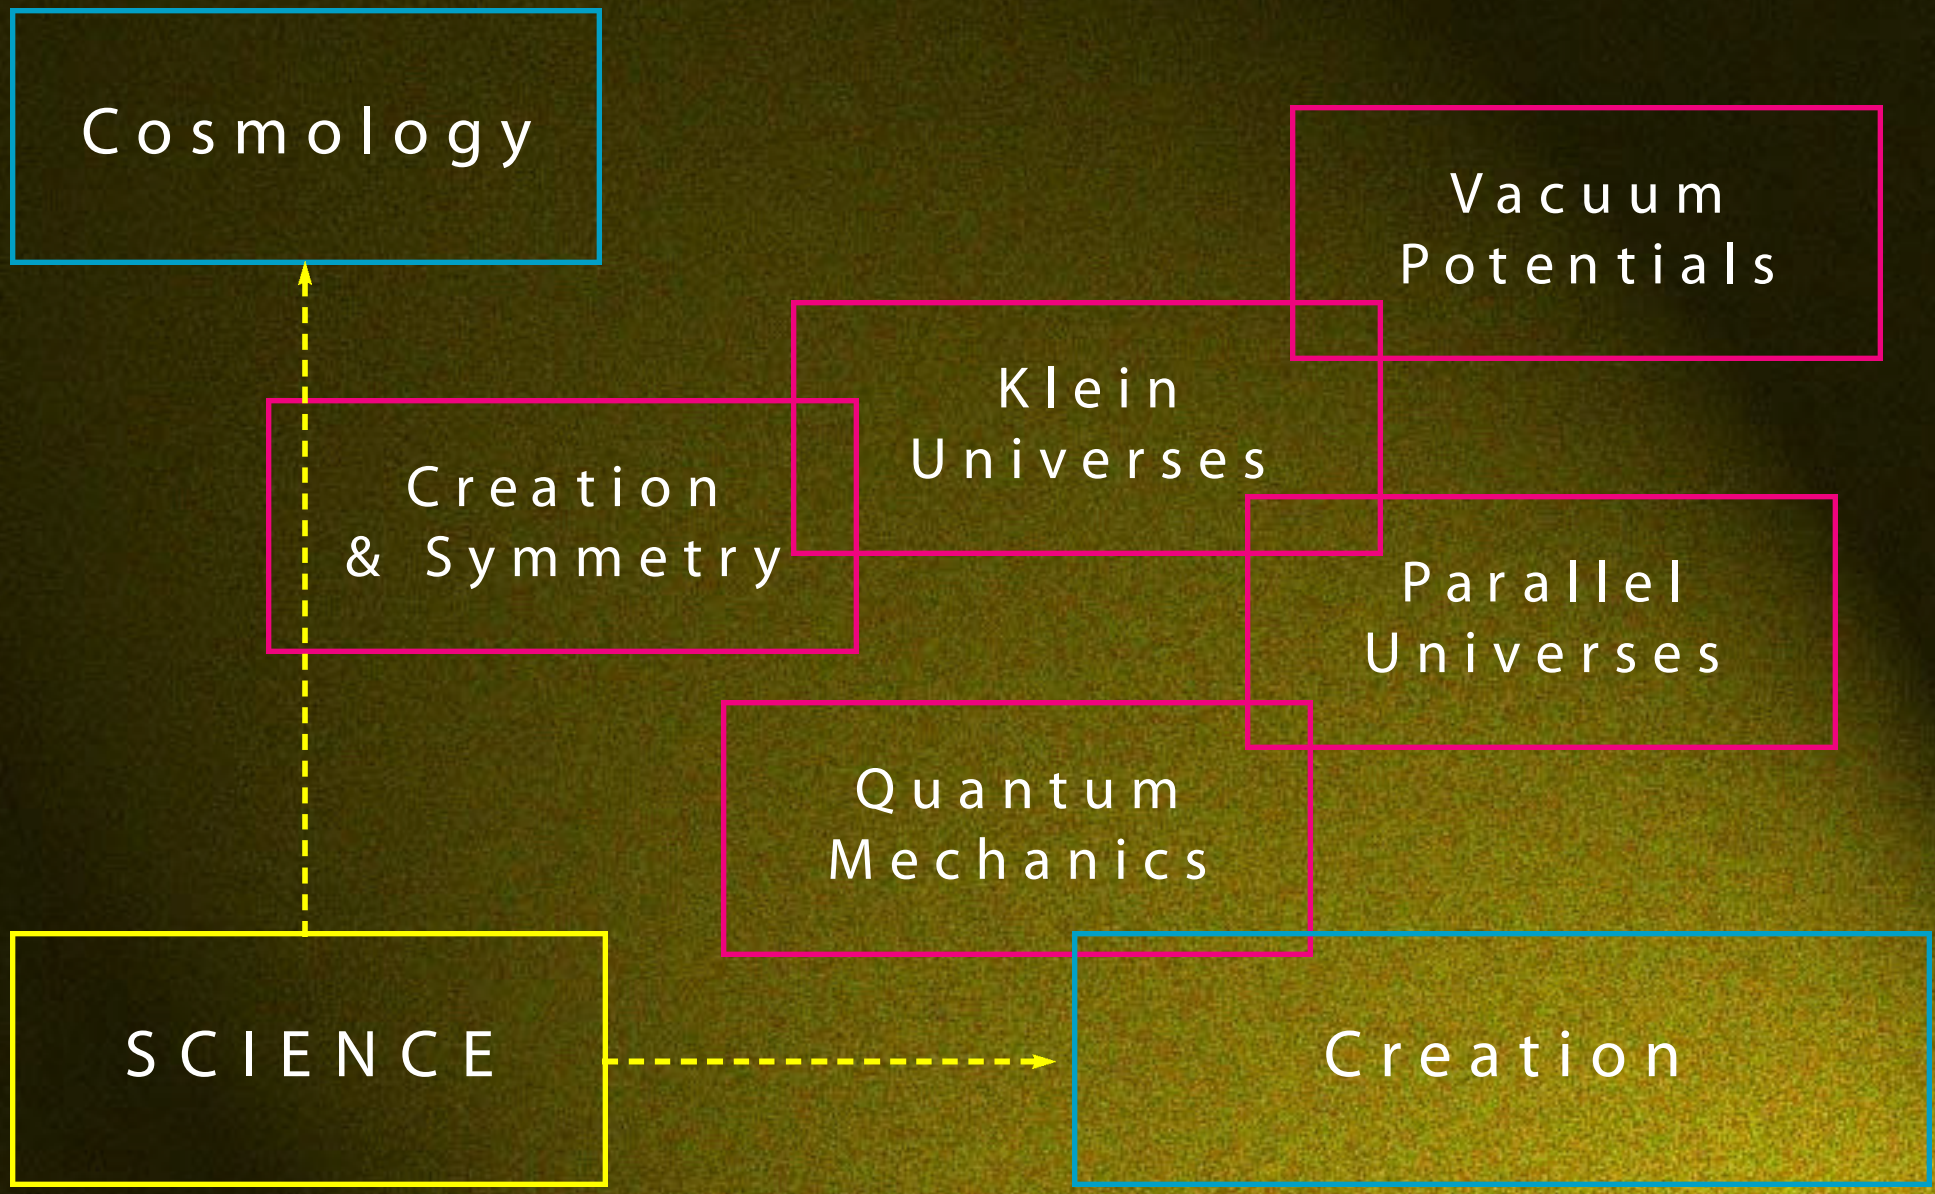
Science is unsure of the origination of the primal atom itself.



Science is at a loss as to what it is the primal atom would or could be immersed.



Science loves to speculate about cosmology, theories of creation, regarding:



vacuum potentials, Klein universes, quantum mechanics, creation through symmetry, parallel universes...

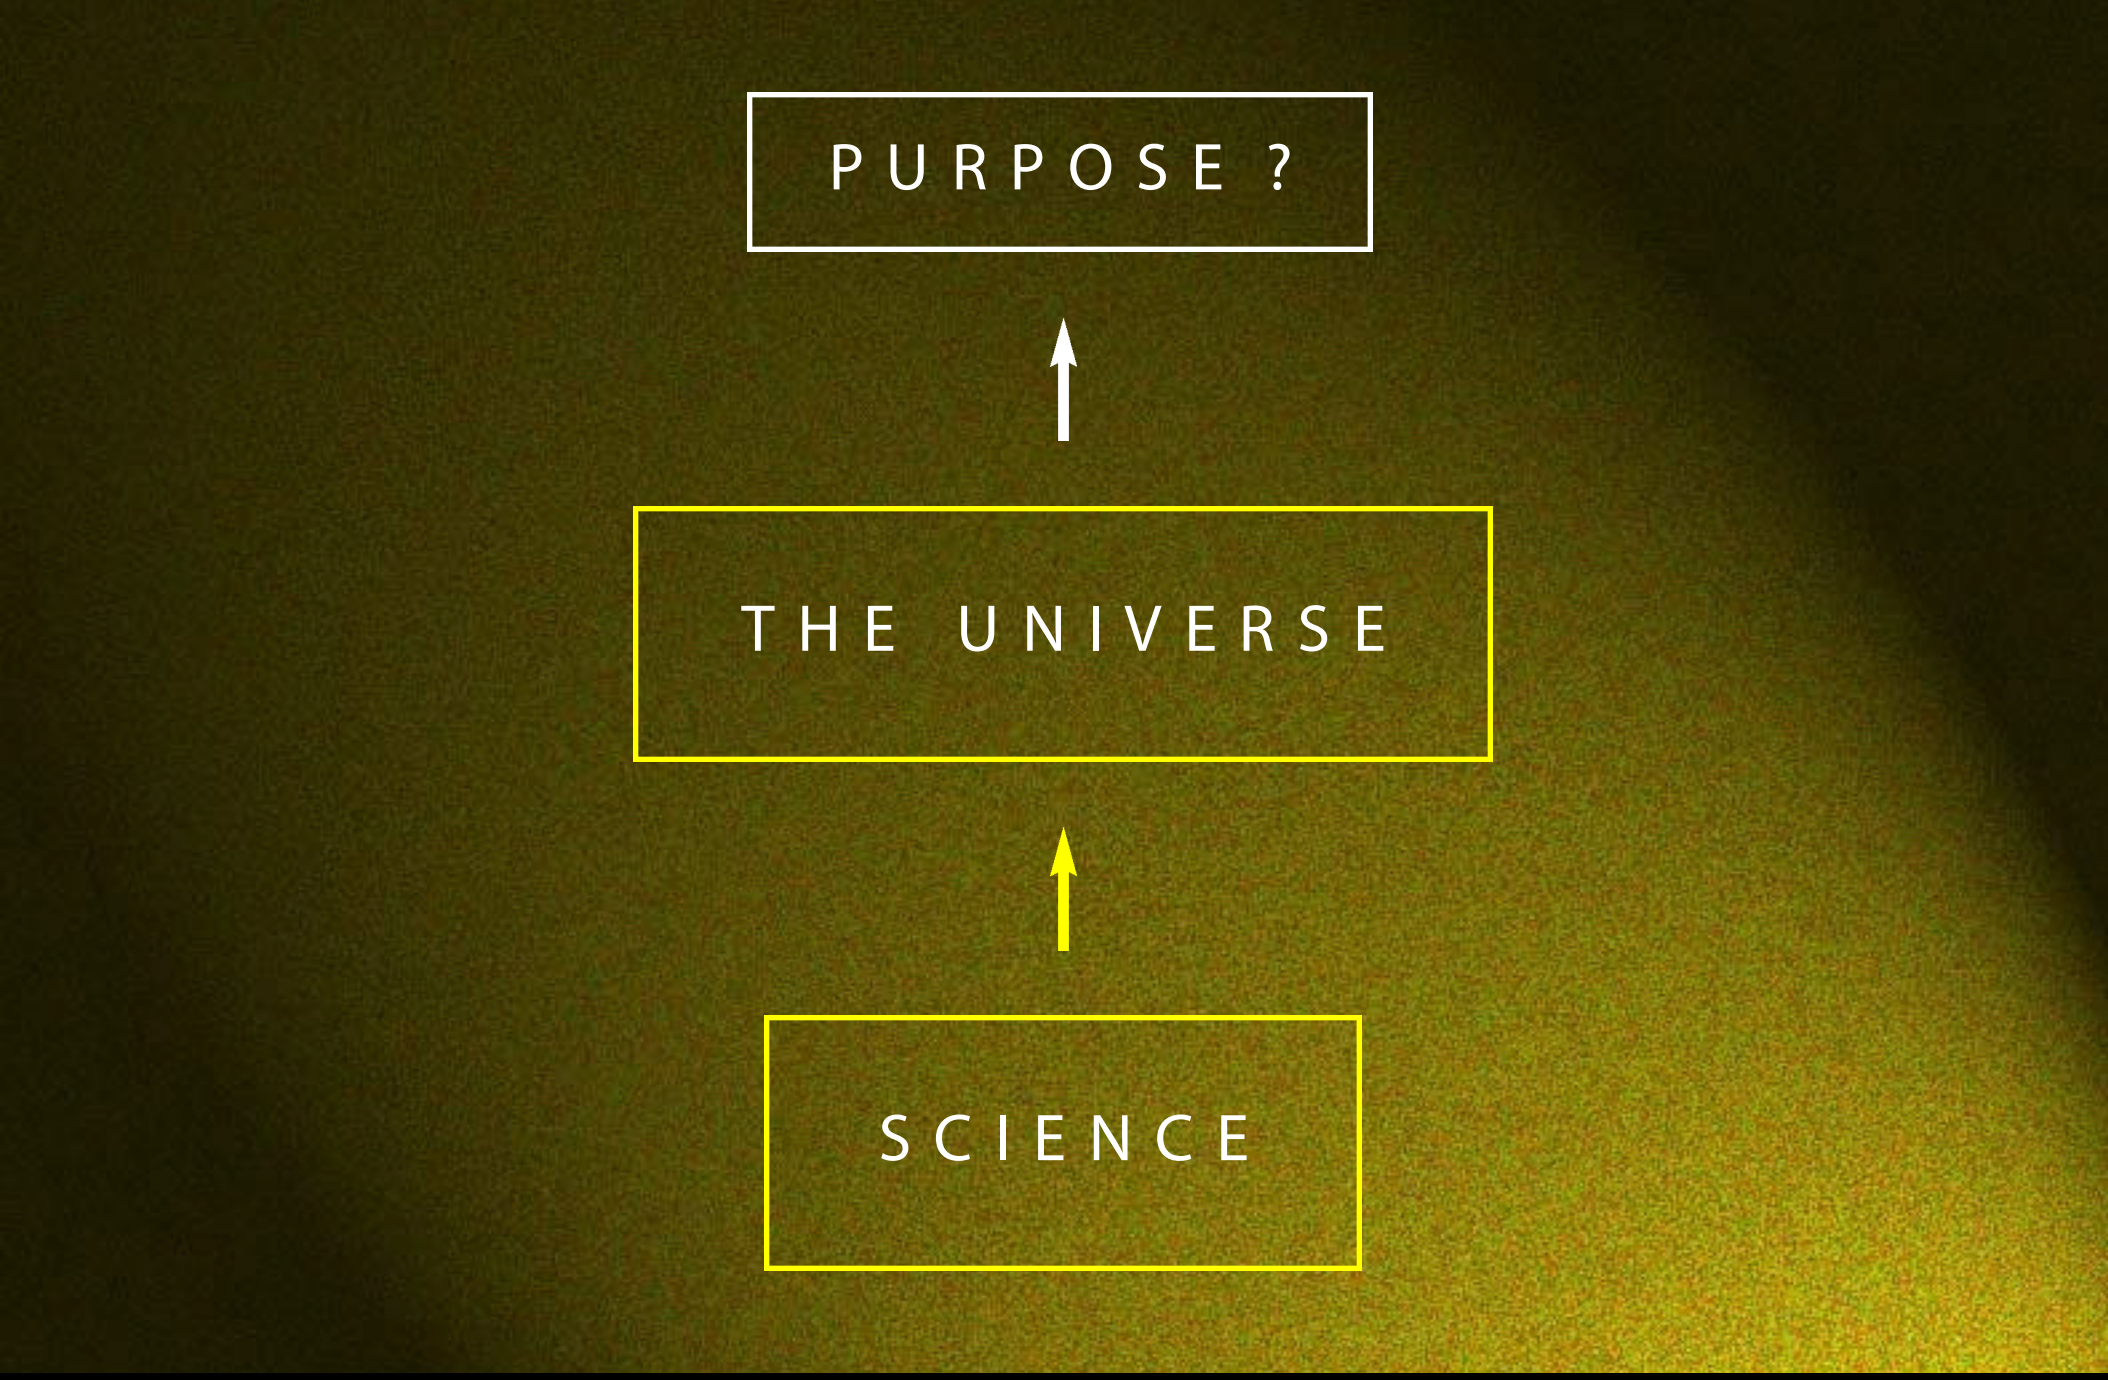
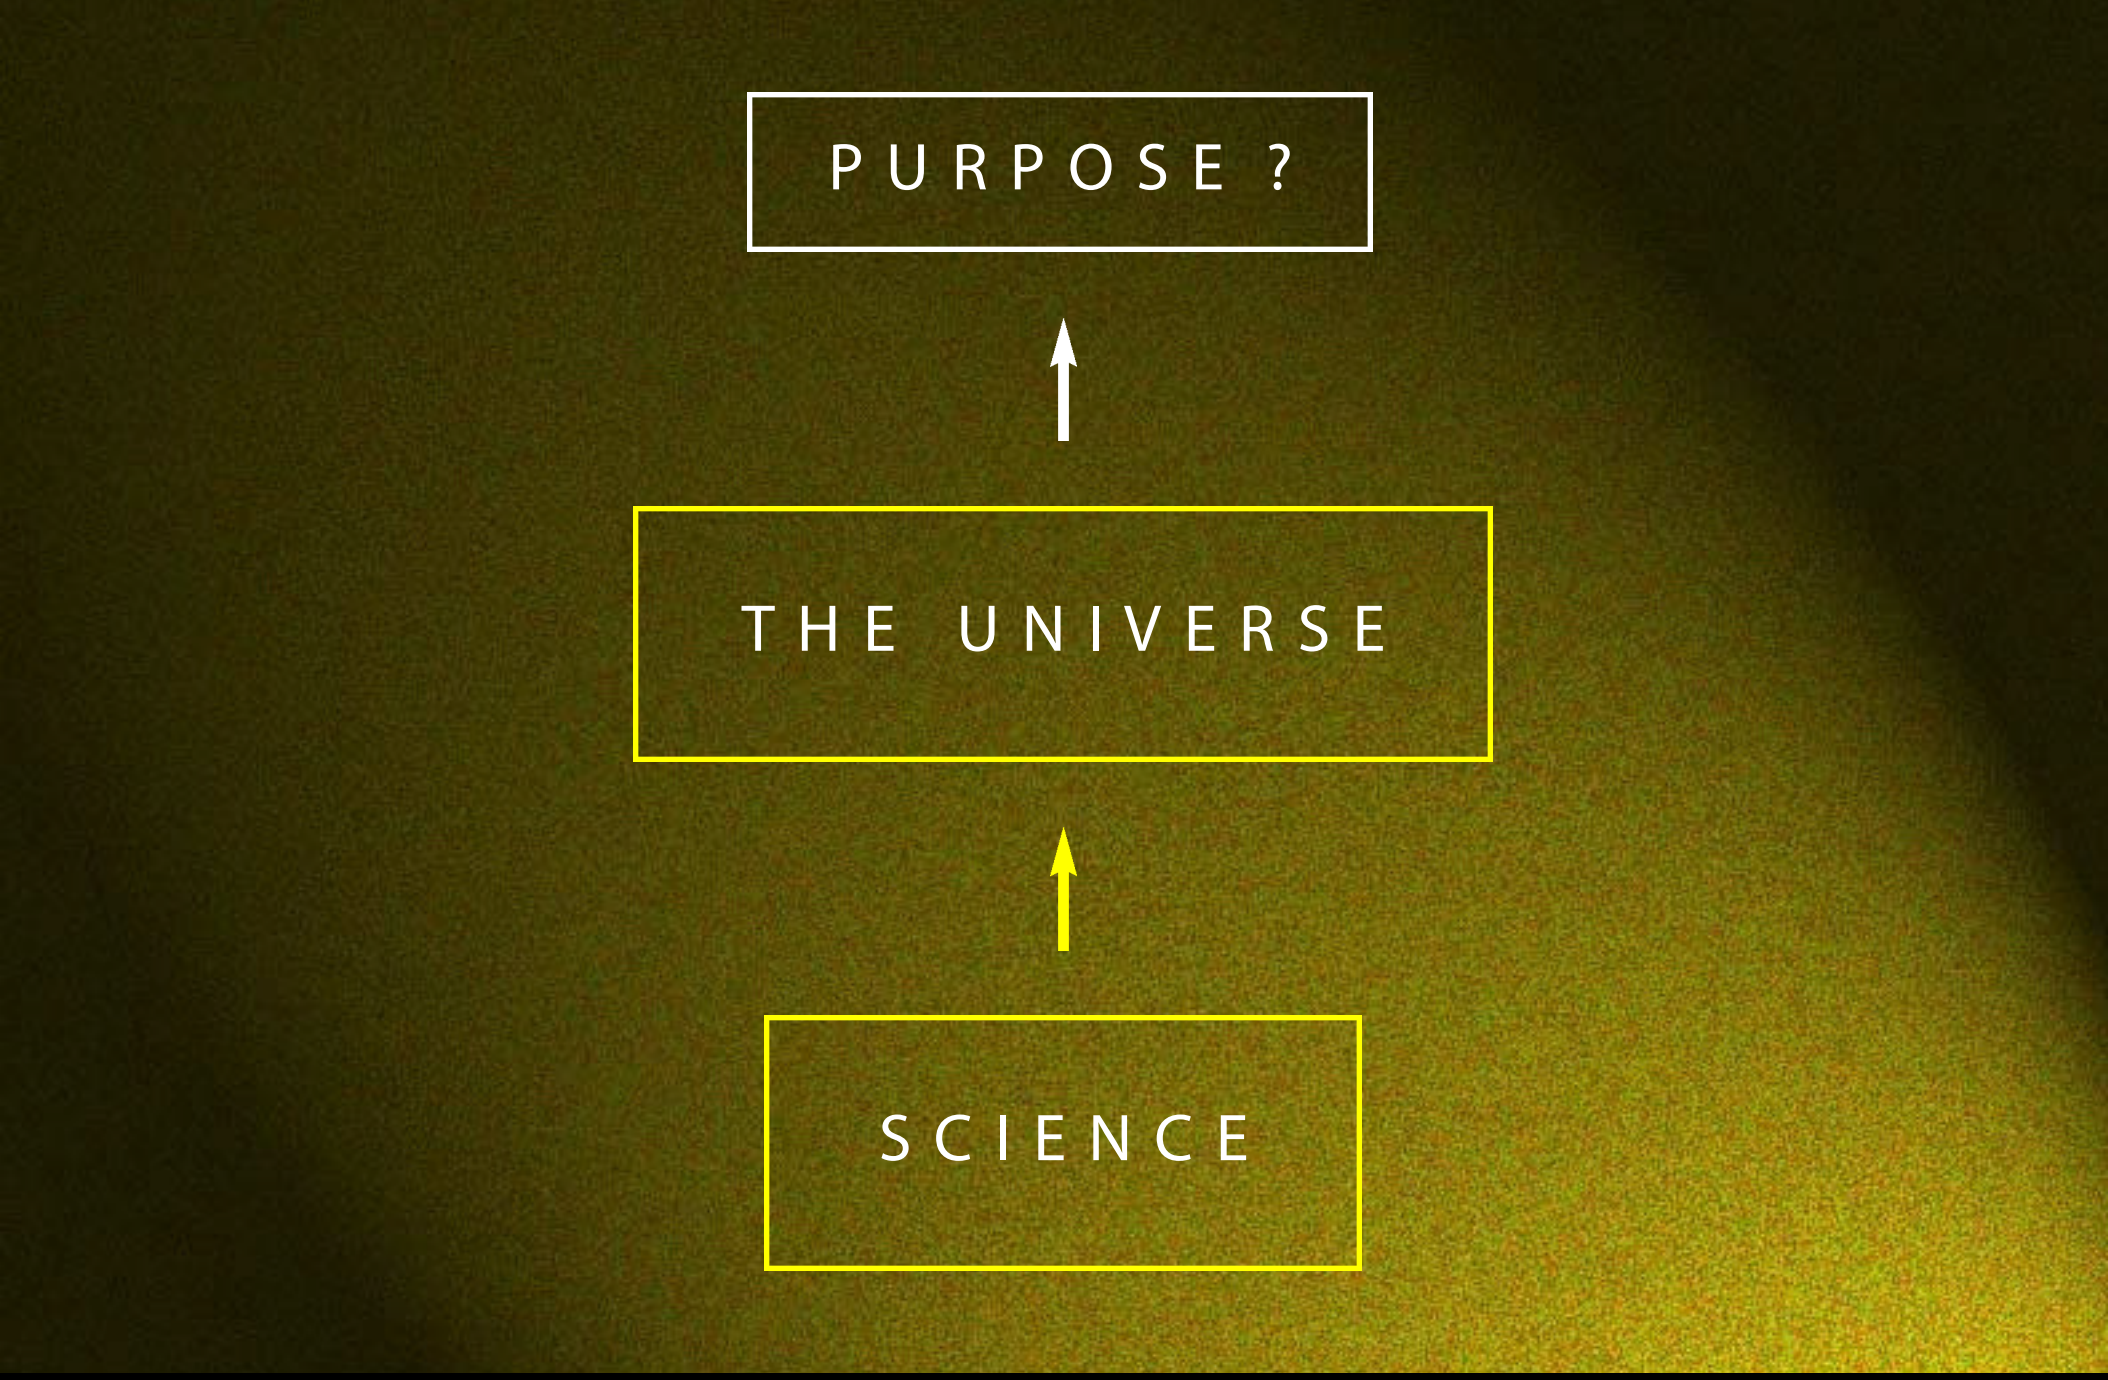
Be that as it may,



science is still unsure as to the nature and purpose of the Universe,



but science nevertheless believes it is reasonable to accept

Science, religion, and philosophy, for the most part, all agree upon the second truth: the Universe exists.
